No Endorsements

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The executive board of the 1.2-million-member United Steelworkers of America, largest union in the AFL-CIO, voted Thursday against endorsing either the Republican or Democratic tickets in the November presidential election.

The announcement was made by I.W. Abel, president of the union, in a terse, seven-line statement to newsmen after a board meeting at USW headquarters here.

"The union will concentrate on congressional, state and local elections, and will vigorously support deserving candidates in such elections in every lawful way," the statement said.

But insofar as the presidential election is concerned, it continued, "it is hereby resolved by the International Executive Board that the USW follows the action of the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO."

With the exception of the 25-man executive board's three Canadian members, who abstained, the vote was unanimous, Abel said.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council voted 27-3 July 9 to side with its president, George Meany, and refrain from endorsing either the Democratic or Republican presidential tickets.

The USW move was seen as another possible setback to Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern's campaign, if for no other reason than that it denies him a rich source of campaign money.

Though no specific figures ever were released, it was known that the USW contributed heavily to U.S. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's 1968 bid for the presidency against Richard Nixon.

The USW's executive board vote was not unexpected. Abel was one of organized labor's sharpest McGovern critics during the Democratic National Convention last month in Miami Beach. He attended the convention as a Pennsylvania delegate pledged to Humphrey, then threw his support to U.S. Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson after Humphrey's withdrawal.

Abel was quick to emphasize Thursday that the executive board's vote was not an endorsement of Nixon.

"We're not by any stretch of the imagination endorsing Richard Nixon," Abel said. "Likewise we are not endorsing McGovern."

Abel said the USW is an "independent" union, "not a tool of the Democratic party."

FCC — Racist Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission Thursday upheld the right of an avowed white supremacist running for the U.S. Senate to have campaign advertising broadcast in Atlanta without censorship.

The commission rejected a protest by three groups and Atlanta Mayor Sam Massell that the advertisements of Democrat J. B. Stoner present a "clear and present danger of violence."

Three of the seven FCC commissioners acting as a board—Robert E. Lee, H. Rex Lee and Richard E. Wiley—concluded a four-page letter to Lonnie King of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People:

"If there is to be free speech, it must be free for speech that we abhor and hate as well as for speech that we find tolerable or congenial."

Stoner, one of 15 candidates in next Tuesday's Georgia primary, said in Atlanta that he appreciates the FCC upholding his constitutional rights and those of "all white Christians."

"I don't care how obnoxious the views of my enemies, I think they should have freedom of speech to say on radio or television whatever they want about me," he said. "I think the FCC ruling should apply to every individual."

Stoner had been running ads over radio station WPLO and over WSB-TV saying:

"I am the only candidate for U.S. senator who is for the white people. I am the only candidate who is against integration... The main reason why niggers want integration is because the niggers want our white women. I am for law and order with the knowledge that you can't have law and order and niggers too."

King was joined in the request to the FCC by the Rev. Joe Boone of the Atlanta Community Coalition, on Broadcasting and Stuart Lowengrub of the Anti-Defamation League. They asked that the stations be permitted to delay broadcasting Stoner's ads until they are reviewed by "an authorized body" without the stations incurring FCC sanctions.

The commissioners noted that the three said the constitutional right of free speech has certain limitations such as not yelling fire in the crowded theater and that Stoner is yelling fire in the crowded theater.

Indochina War

SAIGON (AP) — American planes and naval guns hit Quang Tri with a massive bombardment Thursday, paving the way for a new assault on western sections of the city by more than 2,000 South Vietnamese marines.

Heavy enemy artillery fire and house-to-house fighting slowed the marine attack aimed at destroying the North Vietnamese garrison inside the 19th century Citadel in the heart of the city.

More than 40 U.S. B52 bombers hammered North Vietnamese troop concentrations on the northern front, up to 18 miles from Quang Tri, while F4 Phantom jets and carrier-based planes pounded enemy positions on the fringe of the battle, the U.S. Command announced.

Five 7th Fleet destroyers, the Rupertus, Davidson, Mullinnix, Floyd Parks and Sample, sailed close to shore, adding their guns to the bombardment.

Eighty miles down the coast at the U.S. air base on Da Nang, one American and one Vietnamese were killed and 20 Americans and one Vietnamese wounded when nearly 40 enemy 122mm rockets slammed into the compound.

It was the second rocket attack on an American base this week. Nearly 90 rockets blasted the Bien Hoa base, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, Tuesday, killing one American and wounding 31.

Da Nang was once the biggest U.S. fighter base in Vietnam but seven Air Force and Marine squadrons were moved to Thailand in June.

Okays U.S.-Soviet Arms Pact

Senate Ratifies Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Thursday ratified the treaty with the Soviet Union limiting American and Soviet development of defensive missile systems.

The treaty was hailed as an historic first step on a journey toward ending the "mad momentum" of the nuclear arms race.

The treaty was ratified 88 to 2 on a roll call vote. Approval by two-thirds of the Senate was necessary. No House action is required.

It bars the Soviet Union and the United States from creating nationwide interceptor missile systems, limiting ABM deployment to two bases for each nation.

Under it the United States would be permitted to deploy 100 ABM missiles to defend the capitol at Washington and to protect offensive Minutemen missiles at Grand Forks, N.D.

The Soviets would be permitted 100 ABM missiles at the present defense of Moscow and at another site east of the Ural mountains.

The treaty is a companion piece to an interim five-year agreement intended to slow the pace of the offensive arms race while both nations work on a permanent treaty in that area. The agreement, now awaiting Senate action, also must be approved by the House, where it is awaiting action by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

One of the senators to oppose the treaty as being against the best interests of the United States was Sen. James Buckley, Con.-R., N.Y., who said the United States should not deny itself the means of defending millions of civilians against nuclear attack.

Some senators are opposed to building even the ABM site at Washington and the military procurement bill passed this week by the Senate contained no money for it.

Authorization of the American ABM system by Congress was accomplished by narrow votes.

The Nixon administration contended ABM was needed as a bargaining chip with the Soviets in the strategic arms limitation talks.

the interim five-year SALT agreement.

With backing from the Nixon administration, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., sought to impose new "reservations" on the agreement.

The administration's support for the move was termed a bombshell by one Democratic senator. Others opposed it as an unwelcome note of distrust on which to approve the temporary five-year agreement and the companion treaty limiting antiballistic missile defenses.

Jackson said the present agreement allows the Soviet Union to surpass the United States in the number and quality of offensive missiles. He said an understanding is needed that any future treaty provide for equal limits on offensive forces.

McGovern Considers Muskie For VP Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern said Thursday he is considering Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine as a possible running mate, and he criticized the system under which he must make a choice.

"One of those that I've asked other political leaders to comment on has been Ed Muskie," McGovern told newsmen.

Whether he will ask Muskie to serve as Missouri Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's replacement as the Democratic vice presidential candidate has not been decided, McGovern said.

But, McGovern added, "I'll talk to Ed Muskie" before deciding who to seek.

At the same time, McGovern seemed to throw cold water on speculation that former Peace Corps Director R. Sargent Shriver is being seriously considered for the vice presidential nomination.

Asked whether he or any of his staff have contacted Shriver about the vice presidency, McGovern said: "not to my knowledge. I have not."

Meeting in his Senate office with about a dozen newsmen,

McGovern insisted he has not decided on a replacement for Eagleton.

He said he is continuing to confer with political and labor leaders around the country and said he had talked with former President Lyndon B. Johnson Thursday about the matter.

Earlier, McGovern's national political director, Frank Maniewicz, had said the decision would be announced no later than Friday night. McGovern said only that it would come before the Tuesday meeting in Washington of the Democratic National Committee, which must approve the senator's choice.

McGovern also used the occasion to criticize the system by which presidential nominees in both major parties select their running mates.

He said he has recommended that DNC Chairman Jean Westwood ask the party's charter committee to study the possibility of developing a new method for picking running mates.

"The way the vice presidential nominee is picked is really a major gamble," McGovern said. He said the presidential candidate is usually "exhausted and rushed and must get a vice presidential nominee within a matter of hours."

The South Dakota senator also said that among the names that have been recommended to him by other Democrats as possible replacements for Eagleton have been Ralph Nader, the consumer advocate; Republican Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, and John Gardner, a nominal Republican who is head of Common Cause, a people's lobby in Washington.

Among the names most frequently mentioned in the news media and by sources close to McGovern in recent days, only Muskie's was mentioned by McGovern Thursday.

McGovern said he has also offered the post to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut but that all three turned him down.

The vacancy on the Democratic ticket was created Monday night when McGovern's first running mate, Eagleton, was persuaded by McGovern to withdraw from the ticket.

WASHINGTON—Senator George S. McGovern, jokingly holds a sign recommending his family dog for vice president in his office at the Capitol Thursday where he told newsmen that he was "determined to take advantage" of the time available to him and would announce his recommendation for a running mate at the "very latest by Monday." ## AMC 1973 Cars Meet Standards

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — American Motors Corp. announced Thursday the bumpers system on its new 1973 cars not only meets federal standards for protection in a crash but will qualify its owners for a reduction in insurance rates with one major carrier, Allstate Insurance Co.

AMC became the first U.S. car maker to display its 1973 offerings at a national press preview and laid considerable emphasis on its accomplishments in reducing car damage in collisions.

Allstate Insurance Co. of Chicago announced several weeks ago it would grant collision insurance reductions to the 1973 cars which met rigid standards. AMC said all its new cars have exceeded the 1973 federal bumper standards which require that a car escape undamaged in a 5-mile per hour front impact into a fixed barrier and 2½-mile rear impact.

The top discount, 20 per cent, will be available for AMC's 1973 Hornets and Gremlins equipped with an optional rear recoverable bumper system, said Archie R. Boe, Allstate chairman.

To obtain the 20 per cent discount, a car had to withstand a 5-mile crash front and rear, he said.

AMC also made a strong pitch in the car warranty field, offering an industry first, a maximum allowance of $150 for room and lodging to any 1973 AMC car owner whose vehicle has to be kept overnight for service in a garage more than 100 miles from his home.

Bremer Diary Tells Of Stalking Nixon

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Testimony concluded Thursday in the trial of Arthur Herman Bremer after the jury heard an anguished, often jumbled diary in which the defendant detailed the stalking of President Nixon and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama. The four-day hearing in Prince Georges County Circuit Court went into an afternoon recess. Considering a defense motion, Judge Ralph W. Powers dropped for insufficient evidence four of the 17 charges against the defendant.

The charges dropped accused Bremer of assault with intent to maim Wallace and three other persons wounded by 38-caliber pistol, fired May 15 at a political rally at a Laurel, Md. shopping center.

Remaining were four counts each of assault with intent to murder, assault and battery, and using a handgun in violation of Maryland law and charge of illegally carrying a handgun.

More Influence Is Teacher Aim

Time was when your average teacher, usually an old maid, knew her place in the community (very low) and was properly grateful for the pitance (very small) awarded her for the thankless job of trying to drill a bit of knowledge into young heads.

Today, presidential candidates woo the teacher vote.

A record 8,287 delegates attending the 110th annual convention of the National Education Association in Atlantic City gave their greatest applause to Sen. George McGovern when he promised to establish a separate Department of Education and name a woman as secretary.

The association voted to set up campaign chests to aid "friends of education" in the coming elections. President Nixon, whose administration has spent more on education than any previous one, was condemned for his "insensitive posture toward quality education for all students."

(Every president spends more money on education than his predecessor, of course, but it's never enough to satisfy the National Education Association.)

The delegates also voted to support a massive Confederation of American Public Employees (CAPE), which would unite all public employee groups into one big union—the better to shake down the private taxpayer.

Other signs of changing times included a "Gay Teachers' Caucus," which attempted, unsuccessfully, to get the organization to spend $10,000 for a confidential survey to determine the problems encountered by homosexual teachers.

Old codgers who remember when schools were places of learning and not wellheads of social change may note that America is getting more and more education but Americans are less and less happy.

Is there a connection?

A Few Thoughts On Driving

Many American families have already set out on summer vacation trips by automobile; many others will be starting soon. It is an appropriate time to remind vacation drivers that a few simple precautions may make the difference between a pleasant trip and disaster.

Some ideas on the subject were offered by an outstanding truck driver in a recent interview. The driver, Clarence Hoffman of Minneapolis, is no slouch as an authority on the subject: he is the American Trucking Association's "driver of the year," and serves on the National Highway Safety Advisory Committee.

One point he makes strikes us as particularly sound. Don't take off on a big trip after a heavy day of packing or work, he advises. Instead, get all set and have a good sleep and then start very early in the morning—perhaps two or three o'clock—to beat the heavy traffic.

Hoffman has some tips about night driving, too. He notes that "the distance at which most people can recognize objects decreases at night by 20 feet with each additional 10 miles an hour of speed." How compensate for this? Give your eyes time to adjust when leaving a brightly lighted place; shift your gaze to relax eye muscles; train yourself to look beyond the headlights.

To all this we'll add one general bit of counsel: Don't try to make too many miles a day. It's better to pull in, rest up, and start early again.

Credit Cards: We Use, Disapprove

You may love them or you may hate them, but chances are you've got at least one of them—those little pieces of plastic called credit cards.

Today, one out of every two families uses at least one credit card, reports Lewis Mandell, who directed the first comprehensive examination of credit card use in the United States for the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

The survey found that if a family uses credit cards at all, it generally uses several. Three credit cards is the median number for those families that use them, and a sizable proportion use six cards or more.

The interesting thing is that while credit cards are widely used, they are not widely approved of.

"Few Americans tend to think of credit cards as a good thing, whether they use them or not," says Mandell, who found that 75 per cent of all persons interviewed thought that credit cards make it too easy to buy things they may not really want or can't really afford.

Is the credit card replacing money or checks? Mandell's findings indicate it is not. Families using credit cards tend to write more checks per month than families who do not use such cards.

The conclusion is that credit cards are taking a place in America's financial life but are not taking the place of traditional methods of incurring debts or paying bills.

Nixon, Tanaka Will Seek To Mend Fences

By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and Japanese Premier Kakuei Tanaka are expected, at their Hawaii meeting next month, to focus primarily on China policy and trade.

The timing of the meeting was dictated, officials here said, by Tanaka's desire to "reaffirm" relations with the United States before undertaking a trip to Peking this fall.

Japanese and American officials apparently agreed that if

Tanaka, who became premier July 6, should visit Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai before meeting with Nixon it would intensify speculation that Tokyo and Washington are drifting apart.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who made a fence-mending visit to Tokyo for Nixon in June, told Japanese leaders the President would like to meet with whomever became the new premier.

Close Relations Wanted

After Tanaka took office, there was a general understanding that he and Nixon would meet some time after the November election if the President, as Nixon expects, is re-elected.

However, the Japanese leader last week received an invitation to visit Peking early this autumn. Therefore, the Aug. 31-Sept. 1 Nixon-Tanaka meeting in Hawaii was hastily scheduled.

One of the principal objectives of the conference will be to lay to rest some old ghosts plaguing the Washington-Tokyo relationship and to prevent the development of misunderstandings in the future.

The need to establish close relations with Tanaka is all the more urgent since he knows that the administration would have preferred former Foreign Minister Takeo Sukuda as a successor to Eisaku Sato as premier.

President Pulls Rug

Tanaka owes his leadership of the dominant Liberal-Democratic party, which carries with it the premiership, in large part to the decline and prestige of the conservative wing of the party as a result of last year's "Nixon shocks."

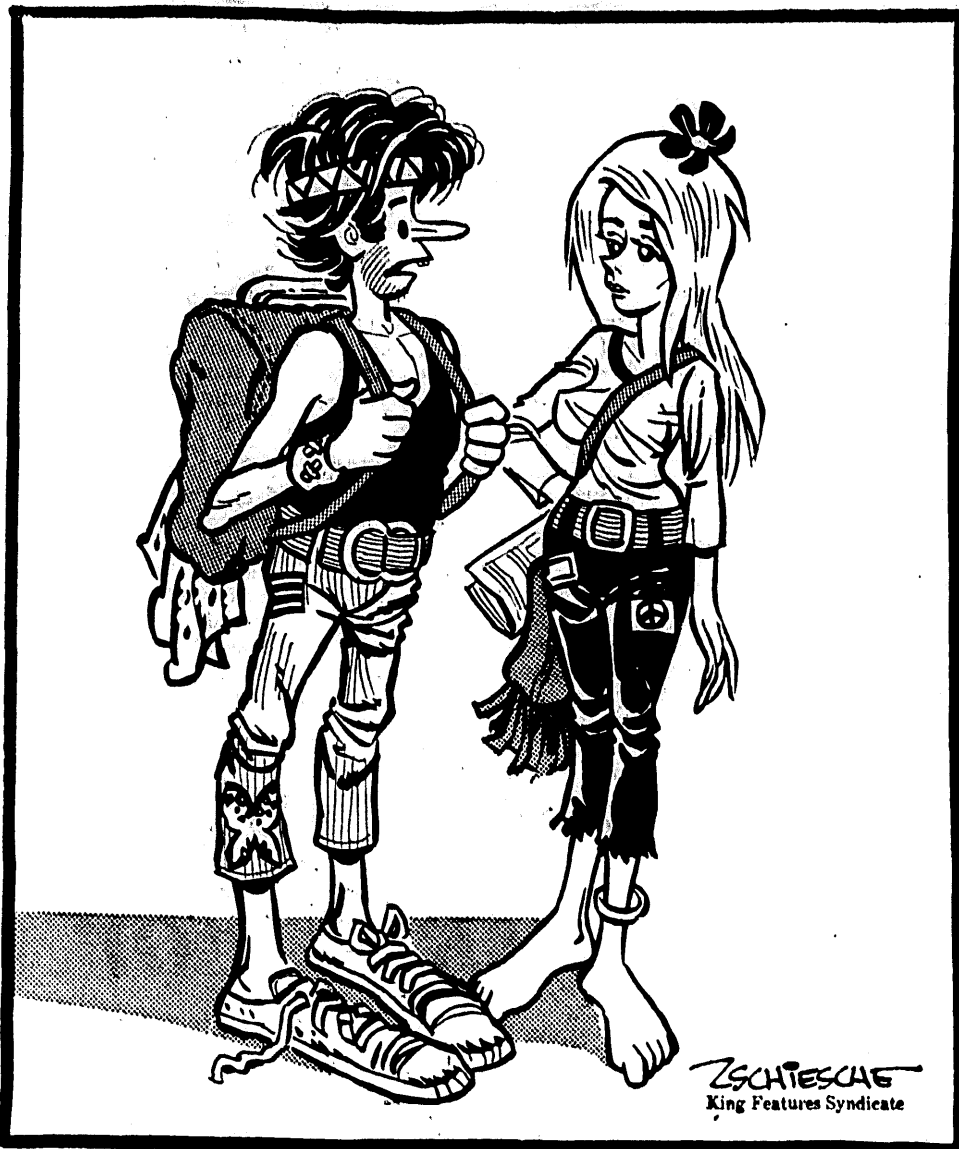

These "shocks" were Nixon's announcement last July of his decision to visit Peking, without notifying Japan in advance, and his adoption in August of stern trade and monetary measures designed to protect the dollar.

Sato, relying on Nixon's 1969 pledge to consult with him before any major change in U.S.-China policy, was left out on a limb, along with Sukuda. Sato and Sukuda were still strongly supporting Taiwan and keeping Peking at arm's length, in line with their agreement with Nixon, when the President suddenly pulled the rug from underneath them.

Tanaka, who was Sato's minister for international trade and industry, took a much more pro-Peking stand than did his leader and thus benefited from the turn of events.

However, Tanaka so far has shown an eagerness to maintain close relations with the United States. He has acknowledged that something must be done to correct the imbalance of trade which results from the United States purchasing a considerably larger amount of Japanese goods than Japan purchases from the United States.

The Hawaii meeting is designed to show that the strained relations of last year have been repaired and that the two countries will continue to cooperate as fully as possible in both security and economic affairs.

Yuppies, Etc., Set Program For GOP

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Most leaders of the "street delegates" — Yuppies, Zippies, welfare groups, the gay crowd — promise Miami Beach authorities no violence at the Republican convention scene a few weeks hence. They think trouble would work in favor of President Nixon.

But so, probably, would plain nuttiness, and this the street types plan plenty of. Recent inquiries suggest that, among some blue collar workers and others Sen. George McGovern badly needs in his vote column, he gets blamed for everything goofy that happens.

If these findings are indicative, then the outside groups may be working from a massive misconception. They feel they caused the "downfall of the Democrats" with their stirrings at Chicago in 1968, and can do the same for Nixon this time.

Miami Beach Mayor Chuck Hall and his police authorities insist, however, that Chicago-style rough stuff is not planned. Hall told me in a telephone interview antiwar Vietnam veterans and others advise him almost daily of their intent to police their own ranks and keep things cool. They say they will deal summarily with any elements bent on violence.

A Miami Beach police official read me a Yippie pledge, evidently given voluntarily, vowing opposition to mass violence as a "tactic" on the ground it would "only reactivate the law and order issue" and by that fact help Nixon.

The Yippie statement went on to say that Miami Beach would be a bad place to make trouble. For one thing, "old people would be hurt."

It is further noted that the Zippies — a Yippie faction — "can't bear the heat and cost of mass arrest situations." What that means is that some already are in difficulty with the law.

With such assurances in hand, Miami Beach officials are cautiously optimistic about the GOP convention. A check at Republican national committee headquarters revealed the same.

"We are not unduly concerned," says one committee officer.

If the forecast has any soft spots, they center on one black nationalist faction and the Students for a Democratic Society. The official word for them is "dangerous," but authorities nevertheless say they can contain any sort of unexpected unpleasantness.

Yet, as suggested, goofiness alone may hurt McGovern. Voters who don't like long-haired, pot-smoking, free-sexing youths often seem these days to assign them all to the Democratic nominee.

That being so, the Yippie-

Zippie schedule for the GOP convention, as submitted to police, can hardly cheer Democrats.

On Aug. 20, the eve of the convention, the program calls for "Dishonor America Day," with flags to be burned, a "welfare Cadillac" (whatever that is) to be burned, eggs to be tossed at a giant photograph of Martha Raye, actress famed for entertaining troops.

Later in the week, on "Support for Women Day," the street folk will "ridicule male chauvinists," namely, Pope Paul VI, Mr. Nixon, his aide Henry Kissinger, actor John Wayne, Playboy magazine publisher Hugh Hefner.

Still later will come "Imperialism Day," featuring a protest rally and "massive march" against "Coca Cola imperialism."

A lot of it sounds like harmless fun. But if some wavering voters are going to dub the fun-makers as "McGovern people," the laughter may be rather thin at the senator's headquarters.

Ann Landers:

Be Somebody Else For The Weekend? What About Monday?

Dear Ann Landers: What are we coming to when a big airline runs a full-page ad telling people that for $152 they can be somebody else for a weekend?

My mother used to tell me, "Be yourself." She emphasized solid values, the wisdom of being a real person—just what you are, nothing more and nothing less. I've tried to raise my three children with that same philosophy. And now I see it's much more desirable to "be somebody else. Laugh and dance barefoot with cordial strangers and fall into the pool."

Have we gone mad? What about it?—Nobody Else

Dear N.E.: One of the central problems of our time is that too many people do not like themselves and they deplore the mundane, monotonous quality of their lives. These unfulfilled people respond to an ad that offers them an opportunity to be somebody else, even if only for a weekend at a cost of $152. Sad, of course, because on Monday morning, there they are—the same miserable, inadequate lonely selves, with the same unresolved problems and nagging insecurities they left on Friday.

Dear Ann Landers: I took my children to the park for a little fun and I came home sick. There were three darling children there, eight, five and two years of age. No one seemed to be with them. As the sun began to set I asked the eight-year-old boy where his Mommy was. "Oh, she's home," he replied. "But she told us to play nice and come home when it gets dark."

I told him I thought he should take his sisters and go right then because the two-year-old was wet and shaking in the cool breeze—no sweater. He reluctantly agreed. As they started to cross the street I yelled at him to take hold of his little sister's hand. She was running ahead, straight into the traffic. Luckily, the cars stopped and the children got across all right.

I went home shortly after that, found the family in the phone book and called the mother. When I told her I was concerned about her children she said, "Oh really?" I asked her if she had ever read about child molesters. She replied, "I don't believe in bringing up children with fear."

Ann, I'm only an ignorant woman, so of course she won't pay any attention to me, but for heaven's sake, please print my letter for that mother and for other mothers who take such terrible chances with their most precious possessions.—Disgusted in Grand Rapids

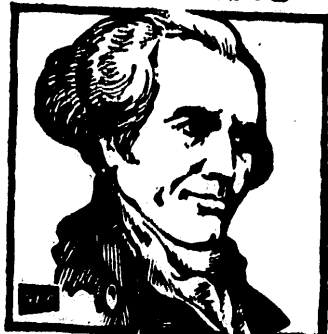

Dear Disgusted: Your letter should make that mother see herself as a woman with an appalling lack of common sense. Thanks for putting it so well.

Dear Ann Landers: Although I've been around, I'm not sure I know the difference between a Closet Queen, a Pink Tea Queen, a Fair Princess or a Butch Number. My husband is a candidate for at least one of the above, maybe all four, and I'd like to express my feelings on this subject.

We've been married for several years and I love him very much. Why should I stop loving him now? He is good to me. Our sex life is not great, but I don't care much for sex so it doesn't matter. I feel he is entitled to his private world, if he wants it, I am happy and don't want to change my life. I'd be miserable without him. I know this is not a perfect setup but it's good enough for me. Do you think I'm a dingbat?—Content in Akron

Dear Ak: What I think is not important. Better to be a contented dingbat than well-adjusted and miserable.

Introducing operation pay~back.

THROW THOSE ALUMINUM CANS OUR WAY.

Stag Beer will pay you 10¢ a pound (about 1/2¢ a can) to bring Stag's new aluminum cans—or anyone else's—to Stag recycling centers. The cans will be recycled into new aluminum.

TEN CENTS A POUND CAN ADD UP.

Operation Pay-Back is a way for organizations to make money while helping to solve the great problem of trash and litter that we face today. Cans can be returned (preferably flat) in any quantity. You'll get free plastic collection bags at the recycling center.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE AN ALUMINUM CAN.

Sorry, only all-aluminum cans will be redeemed. Aluminum cans have no seam on the side or bottom. They're also non-magnetic and lighter than steel cans. Steel cans with aluminum tops cannot be accepted.

RETURN CANS TO STAG RECYCLING CENTERS ONLY.

Cans cannot be accepted at retail stores where you buy beer. They must be brought to the recycling centers listed below.

Mrs. Binh Blasts Nixon Peace Plan

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong spelled out Thursday for the first time their reasons for rejecting President Nixon's May 8 peace plan. They said his proposals were "incomplete, unreasonable and unrealistic."

The chief Viet Cong negotiator, Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, departed from her usual practice of denouncing U.S. proposals without elaborating on her reasons.

In an apparent reference to last week's call by the U.S. delegation that the Communists reply directly to America's offers and stop avoiding negotiations, Madame Binh said: "You asked us to respond to President Nixon's May 8 proposals."

She then launched into a detailed statement which said that "because of its incomplete, unreasonable and unrealistic character, those proposals are not acceptable."

The frail-looking Viet Cong negotiator, as saying the military and political questions had been separated in President Nixon's latest peace plan in order to simplify the process of negotiation.

"But as far as the South Vietnam problem is concerned, the military and political problems are inseparable; to the contrary they are two interrelated aspects of a single problem," she said.

"U.S. intervention and aggression in South Vietnam manifest themselves in both the military and political spheres. Therefore, in order to solve the South Vietnam problem, these two aspects can only be settled simultaneously," she said.

Madame Binh said if the Viet Cong were to agree to a ceasefire, they would lose their only means of exercising pressure on what the Communists consider a dictatorial puppet government in Saigon installed by the United States.

"In other words, the U.S. still would maintain its neocolonialist domination in South Vietnam. Is that not a way to legalize the U.S. (political) intervention and aggression?" she asked.

Madame Binh said that if the United States really wanted to simplify the problem, it should "put a complete end to its intervention and aggression in both the military and political spheres."

In addition to pulling out its troops, she said, Washington should "stop supporting the ruling group it has set up."

Xuan Thuy, the chief negotiator for North Vietnam, repeated Hanoi's charges that the United States deliberately is bombing dikes in North Vietnam.

The meeting came two days after President Nixon's special advisor, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, held another backstage meeting in Paris with Hanoi negotiators.

Neither Madame Binh nor the leaders of the other delegations made any mention of Kissinger's talks before entering the conference hall.

Xuan Thuy, chief negotiator for North Vietnam, repeated Hanoi's charges that "the United States is bombarding dikes and civilian objectives."

in the North despite President Nixon's denial, proving that "the guilt widens between the words and acts of the American President."

The frail looking Madame Binh in scornful tones recalled Nixon's July 27 news conference in which he said prospects for peace were never better and that the Communist military offensive was headed for defeat.

"It is the real intention of Nixon to use the force of bombing to impose on the Vietnamese people a pax Americana," Madame Binh said.

"The Vietnamese people cannot see in this any indication of a desire to negotiate seriously on the part of the United States unless the United States puts an end to the extermination bombing presently raining on South and North Vietnam," she said.

The chief negotiators for the United States and South Vietnam made no statements to newsmen as they marched into the hall on tree-lined Avenue Kleber.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

FRIDAY, AUGUST 4 — Born today, you are not only trustworthy and reliable, you are also capable. And this means that you can be trusted to keep confidences, to honor promises, and also to act, to carry out actual deals in such a way that trust is kept and at the same time gains, whether material or spiritual, are made. Affairs large or small can be turned over to you with complete safety and those who have thus relinquished them can rest assured in the knowledge that you will not only do your best by them but that your best will be highly profitable and pleasurable.

A loving and demonstrative person within your own circle of intimates, you are inclined to appear cold and distant to those who have dealings with you only under businesslike circumstances. A winner by nature, you have no intention of jeopardizing profit by indulging in the sentimental or overly sympathetic. With every good wish for those less fortunate than you, you do not believe you can be of any service to them unless or until you yourself have met with success. And in this you may well be right.

Physically, you may not be especially strong; mentally, however, you are as strong as the come. Completely stable, though there may be times when you display temper or disappointment or discouragement in order to gain an advantage for yourself, you are not one to allow your emotions to lead the way. Reason and logic are the tools you apply to your daily life; seldom do they ever play you false.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, August 5
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — A day when your honesty and generosity can gain you a great deal in the way of admirers and reputation. Do and say what you feel you must.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Take the time to develop a new tack. Otherwise, you may find yourself lost in a maze of possibilities where a new interest is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Make no effort to go it alone today. Friends and family are perfectly willing to support you in whatever you undertake at this time; call on them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Spare your family whatever embarrassment you can. Make sure that everything is on the "up and up"—and stays that way—in current dealings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — The failure to follow your own interests today may cause you considerable emotional pain toward evening. If you are wise, you will please yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Demonstrate your affection for children today. To keep your feelings to yourself is to make youngsters wonder about their relationship to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — A day for keeping in harness. Others may offer you an incentive to break ranks with co-workers, but you would do well to make this a work-a-day Saturday.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 4, the 217th day of 1972. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, Britain declared war on Germany at the beginning of World War I.

On this date: In 1790, a U.S. naval force which later became the Coast Guard was formed.

In 1892, Lizzie Borden was arrested in Fall River, Mass., for the hatchet murder of her father and stepmother.

In 1916, the United States bought the Danish Virgin Islands for $25 million.

In 1944, during World War II, Nazi police captured 14-year-old Anne Frank and seven other Jews in their hiding place in Amsterdam.

In 1955, 11 U.S. Air Force fliers captured during the Korean War reached Hong Kong after being freed from prison in China.

In 1963 it was disclosed that a former figure in the underworld, Joseph Valachi, had been supplying the FBI with information about a national crime syndicate.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy announced that the highest American award for a civilian would go to Dr. Frances Kelsey, the federal official who kept the harmful drug, thalidomide, off the American market.

Five years ago: U.S. planes carried out a record 197 missions over North Vietnam.

One year ago: The Apollo 15 spacecraft headed back to earth after a six-day mission of exploring the moon.

Today's birthdays: Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth is 72 years old. Former Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is 73.

Thought for today: Being a well-dressed man is a career, and he who goes in for it has no time for anything else—Hollywood Broun, American Journalist, 1888-1939.

Keep your doubts about the success of an at-home project to yourself. You will do well to encourage another in his latest enterprise.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Though there may be a deficiency where energy is concerned, you should be able to meet the day's demands. Evening hours bring new opportunity.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — The conventional approach will get you farthest today. If you attempt anything new in the way of method, you may be in for failure.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — A day for recuperating. The week just past may have been more of a strain than you realize, so take advantage of an opportunity for rest.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — To struggle against what must be will only bring frustration and possible illness. Make an effort to adapt to the situation as it is—and will be.

Proxmire said the figure would have been higher except that "seven of the 45 weapons programs were removed from the Pentagon's reporting system and figures for these programs can no longer be updated."

Most of the seven were dropped because they were canceled or completed, he said. Of the seven, Proxmire said the main battle tank, the Gamma Goat combat truck and the FB111 jet fighter were the most mismanaged.

As for other weapons systems, the Wisconsin Democrat said in a speech prepared for the Senate that the Pentagon should report a $1.5 billion overrun on the F-14 aircraft.

Proxmire said the Air Force's F-15 jet fighter's cost has been changed by "changing the cost base" and that "instead of a $1.8 billion cost overrun in this program, there is really an overrun of $2.7 billion," Proxmire said.

Other programs showing extremely large increases, Proxmire said include the Safeguard antiballistic missile, $2.1 billion; the C5A aircraft, $1.8 billion; the B1 bomber, $2.2 billion; the F111 aircraft, $4.9 billion, and the SRAM missile, $1 billion.

Unearthing An Ancient Empire Excites Scientific Wonder

By RICHARD M. SUDHALTER
AKROTIRI, Isle of Thera, Greece (UPI)—As scientists calculate it, fire and rock rained from the sky, burying cities under hundreds of feet of ash. Tidal waves nearly 700 feet high, rushing at more than 200 miles an hour, smashed in a moment the proudest of the ancient maritime empires.

And out of holocaust, a legend. Here, behind the towering, blasted cliffs, cinders and ash layers of this southern Aegean island, many scientists say they may have found the key to the "lost civilization" of Atlantis.

"That is quite true. This may indeed be the source of the Atlantis legend," Even as Prof. Spyridon Marinatos spoke the idea aloud, he grew visibly wary of it.

"There is a danger here. It is only too easy to become lost in speculation about Atlantis, and thereby lose sight of what is to us far more important right now—conclusive insight into the Minoan Empire."

Marinatos, with a graying, bushy brow and scientist's craggy features, is Greece's top archaeologist. He holds the government position of inspector-general of antiquities.

Under his direction in 1967 a team of scientists and students began digging in a ravine outside the small, crumbling alabaster town of Akrotiri on Thera's south coast.

Major City Found
In five years they have uncovered a treasure beyond Marinatos' wildest dreams: a major city, of a size still to be calculated, but clearly a pivotal part of the Minoan maritime empire centered on Crete, 70 miles to the south, 3,500 years ago.

The city stands intact, caught and frozen for all time when death came fiery hot from the skies, the earth shook and the waters rose to break the back of the bull of Minos, triumphant symbol of an empire respected throughout the ancient world.

Thera has borne many names through the ages. It has been Kalliste (the "most fair") and Stronghyle, the "round island," though its modern form barely hints at that. More recently it has been Santorin, after St. Irene, its patron saint in the Greek Orthodox Church.

According to all available geological evidence the island has always been a volcano. But by the rise of Minoan Crete around 2500 B.C. it had long been dormant.

Maritime Trade Experts
Minos at its height grew into a civilization based on a prosperous trading economy. Its ships were among the first to use the keel, and carried Minoan commerce the length of the Mediterranean. Pottery from these islands has been found at Marseille, France, and at the Isle of Menorca, off Spain.

Its people, handsome and decoratively clothed, lived an urbane life on the hundreds of islands dotting the Aegean.

Here, in Marinatos' words, "lay the birthplace of European civilization."

Then, midway through the 15th century B.C., a natural cataclysm of near-unimaginable magnitude wiped out Minos at its fullest flower. The Thera volcano exploded, hurling pumice, rock, fire, ash and lava miles into the air with a shock and sound felt for hundreds of miles.

Its closest modern parallel, scientists agree, is the explosion of Krakatoa, between Java and Sumatra, Aug. 26-27, 1883. Krakatoa's tidal waves devastated nearly 300 towns and villages on the Sunda Strait, killing 36,380 persons. The sound of the explosion was heard clearly up to 3,000 miles away. Seismographic instruments in London and Paris picked up the shock waves.

Experts now estimate the Thera explosion may have been up to four times as powerful.

Sea Water Filled Gap
As with Krakatoa, sea water rushed into the volcano's newly emptied magma chamber after the explosion, struck its superheated bottom and recoiled violently. From here, Greek seismologist A. C. Galanopoulos takes up the story.

"The sudden movement of such huge quantities of sea water created waves of prodigious height," he said in his book, "Atlantis." "These waves, spreading in all directions, flooded the coasts of the eastern Mediterranean to a great height above sea level, completely devastating all towns and settlements in and around the Aegean."

Galanopoulos calculates these tidal waves must have measured 600 feet at their start, then raced across the 70 miles to Crete in less than 30 minutes. There, still 300 feet high, they devastated Minos and its capital of Knossos.

What has this to do with Atlantis? Plato, writing in the "Timaeus" and "Critias," tells of a story brought back from Egypt in 590 B.C. by the sage Solon, describing "a great and wonderful empire which had rule over the whole island and several others, and over parts of the continent."

It was destroyed, said Solon, by "violent earthquakes and floods, and in a single day and night of misfortune ... the island of Atlantis in like manner disappeared into the sea."

Marinatos, Galanopoulos, British classicist J.V. Luce and others have published strong arguments identifying Atlantis with Minos. They pick apart past theories placing the "lost continent" in the Atlantic Ocean—Luce says both names derive separately from the Greek name for Atlas—or elsewhere.

Certainly today's Thera, Atlantis or not, bears visible witness to the devastation of 3,500 years ago. A ship entering the 32 square mile bay which now covers the volcanic crater passes cliffs rising twisted and stark 1,150 feet out of the sea, striated in layers of red and gray lava, then, higher, white-gray tephra, volcanic ash.

Unusually Warm Water
In the center of the bay, dark brown against the grays, are two islets forming the volcano's "plug." The surface of the water around them, even by Aegean standards, is unnaturally warm, broken periodically by great, discolored heat boils. Fresh pumice floats on the sea.

Atop the cliffs, perched gleaming white, are the towns—Oia, Phira, Merovigli. The only way up is a zigzag mule track of 800 steps out into the cliff face.

The top, dotted with tiny whitewashed villages, is in reality a mountainside—the former flanks of the volcano of old, covered with vineyards and sloping gently to the sea. A fleet of rusted gray taxis, Soviet-built Volga sedans, cart visitors around the island's narrow cinder-laned roads. No one—not even the grizzled Theras who drive them—seems to know how they got there.

"Megalli Polis" (big city), a guide said, indicating with a generous sweep of an arm the roofed-over excavations marking the area where five years of work have uncovered a highly developed urban community which seems to spread without limit in all directions. The archaeological team is still clearing away tons of brittle, chalky tephra. The more they dig, the more there is.

There are streets once alive with people. Here a crumbled staircase which once led to someone's bedroom, there a cracked bathtub, decorated in red and gold to a lady's pleasure. Around the corner a coppersmith's shop, anvil and dipping-trough still intact.

Frescoes discovered here depict many facts of day-to-day Minoan life: two youths sparring with what must be the earliest known boxing gloves, girls alluring in the bare-breasted fashions known from the wall paintings at Knossos.

Furnishings of Stone
But frescoes aren't all. There are tables and chairs and toilets and beds and dressing tables, all hewn out of stone or the marble which lies strewn like driftwood about these islands.

"We are still actively digging," said Marinatos, sipping heavily sweetened Greek coffee in his seventh-floor paneled office in Athens. "Who knows what we will find as we continue?"

Who indeed? For the moment, Thera sleeps on in the sun. Now and then, as in 1956, the mighty volcano stirs slightly—the result was a spasm that smashed 2,000 houses in less than a minute.

Only 25 miles to the north, the shock tipped the water out of the harbor of the island of Los, then returned it with a rush that flooded nearly a mile inland, depositing sailboats in farmyards and scattering stone houses.

The history of the Thera volcano is not finished yet.

ASHLAND LEGION AUXILIARY PLANS INSTALLATION

ASHLAND — The American Legion Auxiliary met in the Legion Hall Friday night. The meeting was opened with prayer, the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the preamble.

Several projects were discussed and tabled until a later date. A donation was approved for the Boy Scouts toward a Scout flag.

The next Auxiliary dinner meeting will be at Rossi's restaurant in Virginia on Wednesday, August 9th. Contact Mary Awaft for information. The new officers will be installed at this meeting.

The meeting was closed with prayer by the chaplain. Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. Alma Gainer and Mrs. Pauline Thomas.

Sutherland Does A New 'Lucia'

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
NEW YORK (UPI)—When Janet Dalrymple stabbed the husband she had been forced into marrying in their bridal chamber on Aug. 24, 1969, it was a tragedy that was to echo through the centuries in music.

A hundred and fifty years later Sir Walter Scott retold the story as a novel entitled "The Bride of Lammermoor" and Gaetano Donizetti used that for his opera "Lucia di Lammermoor."

Lucia had its premiere on Sept. 26, 1835, at the Teatro San Carlo in Naples. An instant success, it became one of the great coloratura soprano display pieces in the bel canto repertory.

So it has remained, and Joan Sutherland has given us a splendid Lucia in a new production of the opera for London Records (OSA 1303—three records).

Forced Marriage
As Jane Dalrymple was forced by her family to break her vows to the man she loved and marry another, so was Lucia in Scott's novel. And so is the Italianized Lucia in the opera, set in a fantasy Scotland near the end of a fantasy 17th Century.

Lucia pledges her love to her brother's enemy, Edgardo. Her brother forces her to marry Lord Arturo Bucklaw instead to save him from disgrace. She stabs Arturo to death in their bridal chamber, then dies herself of madness. Edgardo stabs himself to join her in death.

In real life, only Janet paid. Neither the husband nor the lover died.

The lyricism of Lucia has overridden the criticisms of it as drama—music conquers all. The cast is well balanced and the recording excellent. Lucia—no Pavarotti sings a fine Edgardo, the lover who Lucy is forced to abandon. Sherrill Milnes is equally fine as the wicked, but later repentant, brother, Lord Enrico Ashton.

Huguette Tourangeau is Alisa, her companion, and Pier Francesco Poli, the follower of her brother who starts it all by revealing her love for Edgardo. Ryland Davies is the husband.

One of the finest performances is that of the Bulgarian bass Nicolai Ghiaurov as the chaplain Raimondo, Lucia's confident and one of the main characters of the story.

Richard Bonnyne, Miss Sutherland's husband, conducts this excellent production with the chorus and orchestra of the Covent Garden Royal Opera.

Recommended:
Mozart's Requiem sung by Sheila Armstrong, Janet Baker, Nicolai Gedda, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau and the John Alldis Choir with the English Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Daniel Barenboim (Angel S-36842)—Mozart's last composition is often sung as a memorial to the composer. It was completed by his pupil and friend Franz Süssmayr after Mozart died at the age of 35. A beautiful recording.

The Credo and Corporation Masses by Mozart sung by Helen Donath, Gillian Knight, Ryland Davies, Clifford Grant, Stafford Dean and the John Alldis Choir with the London Symphony Orchestra conducted by Colin Davis (Philips 6500 234)—Early Mozart written before he left Salzburg for Vienna, joyously written and performed.

RIVER BOAT TO
VISIT BEARDSTOWN
AT FALL FESTIVAL

BEARDSTOWN — An added attraction for the annual Fall Festival here September 30 and October 1 will be excursions on the Julia Belle Swain.

This boat is said to be an exact replica of the old Julia Belle Swain which plied the Illinois river a half century ago, and which often docked here in the days when river passenger service was considered important.

The craft has put in here on several occasions, and has always attracted large crowds of interested inspectors and riders.

Boyle's Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

One of the surest signs a man is growing old is the development in him of new small habits of thrift—such as the saving of string or paper bags, tossed into a drawer. Nature, the great conservator, has whispered in his ear that the time of life has come when he cannot afford to throw anything away, but must cling desperately to everything he has.

A majority of the working population of America seems to get its gears going in the morning with a cup of hot coffee and a piece of pastry or a doughnut.

How can a civilization endure if most of its people start each day with such a dietary disaster? Shades of our pioneer ancestors, who breakfasted on biscuits, butter, honey, eggs, bacon, ham or steak. But the good temper, digestion and endurance on the job of the average man would improve vastly if he did just one simple thing—replace the piece of pastry with a single hard-boiled egg. Try this for two weeks yourself, and see if you don't feel better.

A healthy mind is one that doesn't clutter itself with small animosities or waste its energy on trifles. Resentment drains your energy, just as too many small leaks will in time empty a reservoir. If you let yourself be eroded by petty concerns, you will inevitably wind up petty-minded.

The very poor and the very rich are alike in some ways. Utter poverty can make a man as selfish and egotistical and arrogant as wealth can make a man who feels it is a cushion against consequences. Both pauper and prince tend to have deplorable manners, the one because he is naughty, the other because he is haughty. Only members of the middle class consistently employ good manners—or hold each other in mutual respect.

If I were sitting on a jury, I doubt that I would vote for any verdict that would cost more than a year in jail for any man who robbed a bank in order to pay his own doctor bill or to buy a set of false teeth for his dear old gray-haired mother. It is essential at almost any price to keep up a good family appearance in this world.

You can't listen very long at a cocktail party to two people talk about their trip to Paris without one exclaiming, "And remember, on a bad morning, how well the strawberries went with the champagne?" And the other always murmurs assent, and nods misty-eyed, and then a hushed reverent pause ensues as if everyone was in church. For crying out loud, doesn't anyone ever go to Paris, wake up with a hangover, and reach out shakily for a handful of leftover peanuts and a bottle of cola?

Use Caution Cleaning Outdoor Table Umbrella

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—Helen might clean the canvas umbrella over her outdoor table as we clean our canvas hammock. For many years we have been soaking our canvas hammock. For many years we have been soaking it with plenty of hot water and detergent, scrubbing with a brush, rinsing and then hanging it over the line to dry for several days. We do this every year and our hammock still looks quite nice. Also, she might try spraying her leather hassock with that well-known household disinfectant to remove the mildew odor. My daughter has lots of mildew during humid weather and she uses this on practically everything.—MRS. C.L. ed that the older canvas ones cannot always be cleaned too satisfactorily. Some are not shrunk so great care must be taken to prevent too much soaking and then shrinking but always dry with the umbrella open. If the design is painted on, do not scrub. The roughness of the paint used makes them even harder to clean. First test open. If the design is painted on, do not scrub. The roughness of the paint used makes them even harder to clean. First test a small place on any umbrella.—POLLY

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—My old white ironstone china has yellowed with age and I cannot restore it to its original whiteness. I would appreciate some help from a reader who may have remedied this condition. Mine seems to become yellow in spots rather than all over a piece.—

MRS. R.C. DEAR POLLY—My Pei Peeve is really a suggestion to the owners of drive-in restaurants. When we eat at such a place the trash always seems to blow off the trays. Why do they not put trash cans under each stand or even tie a plastic bag to it? This would certainly save time and effort for the car hops, and the place would look neater and more inviting without the litter.—VERA such as the antique gems in the collection of a California couple, Robert and Jeanne Trepanier. Numbering almost 200 models, the collection has examples of almost every variation ever thought up on the two-wheeled form of transportation. Many involve ingenious steering and propulsion mechanisms, such as the 1885 Star ratchett drive bike above, powered by pumping pedals up and down. Above right, an 1870 Penny Farthing highwheeler, named after British coins, with a 60-inch diameter front wheel. Below left, a wire-driven bike from Germany circa 1905 and, right, an English tandem of about 1890. Either rider can pedal or steer.

There Are Bicycles and Then There Are Bicycles

Oman—Where East Is Trying To Meet West

By GERARD LOUGHRAN

MUSCAT, Oman (UPI) — The sun may have set on the British Empire but the afterglow lingers on.

In distant Muscat, British "pound note" accents ring resoundingly through the bazaars. Housewives scour the shelves of the country's only supermarket for Chivers Old English Marmalade and Twinings Tea. The favorite breakfast at the city's main hotel is bacon and eggs and toast.

The Union Jack flutters over the prime-positioned embassy next to harbor walls bearing the exuberant graffiti of post British sailor visitors — "HMS FALMOUTH" in white letters 10 feet high, and discreetly in a niche, a nude lady of the type beloved of tattooists.

The British connection dates back to 1798 when the Sultanate of Oman, of which Muscat is the capital, signed an agreement with London to exclude French ships from the area. Since then, ties have been close and constant.

Travelers pick up the British flavor in Dubai, a booming little city-state in the Persian Gulf, when they board their Fokker Friendship for the 60-minute flight to Muscat.

Cockeyed Thrives
In Muscat, British officers of the Sultan's Armed Forces (SAF) dressed in khaki shorts and scarlet berets, welcome military visitors in booming parade-ground tones: "See you made it, old boy. Good show."

Pink-kneed Britons, many of them working on new construction projects, gather in the bar of the hotel and discuss beer and foreign travel and Home and beer and Home.

In the messes of the Sultan's army, which has 135 British officers, lunch is "bangers and mash" (sausages and mashed potatoes) and dinner is roast lamb.

Arab servants wake up visitors at 6 a.m. with a steaming cup of tea.

The favorite newspaper, though many days old, is the London Daily Telegraph.

And continually, there is the English preoccupation with the weather. In Muscat it is always very hot—around 100 degrees. Always.

Living Costs Soar
There are other surprises in Muscat including its fanatically high prices.

Two years ago, a four-story Arab-style building was being rented out at 425 rials Saidi ($1,020) a month. Today the asking price is 2,000 rials ($5,000). Other living costs are commensurate.

The astonishing leap in prices has taken place since Sultan Said Bin Qabus came to power two years ago and flung long isolated Oman open to the world.

For the 38 years of his deposed father's rule, almost no building was done anywhere in the country and Muscat, the capital of the Sultanate, remained the traditional walled Arabian city of medieval times.

With the opening-up of the country to investment and construction, prices have shot through the roof.

Most of Oman's 1,500-plus foreigners are contract workers earning high salaries so they or their companies can afford the prices. But the inflation has hit the country's half-million Omanis, too.

Faiz Ali, a 22-year-old bank clerk, said his wages had shot up since the coup, but so had his expenses.

Suffer Inflation Woes
"I used to earn 30 rials ($75) a month and now I get 80 ($200)," he said. "But 40 rials ($100) goes on rent of a single-room house and with food and clothes I only manage to save about 15 rials ($37) a month."

Staple Omani foods, apart from goat, are mainly imported at a tax of 5 per cent and one of them—rice—has gone up 1.5 rials ($3.75) over the past year to 13 rials ($32) for a 200 lb. bag.

Another major factor in the price increases was the May, 1970, currency change from large silver Maria Theresa thalers to rials Saidi.

In fact just about the only item that has gone down in recent months has been the price of camels. With thousands of Japanese Datsuns and English Land Rovers crumming the roads, you can now get a 120-rial ($360) camel for the bargain basement price of 25 rials ($61).

The chief U.S. representative in Muscat is Clifford James (Pat) Quinlan. Together with his wife, Louise, who acts as his secretary, they form the total staff of the American mission in the capital of the Sultanate of Oman.

Quinlan, relaxed, jockey and handsome, is a sandy-haired Arabic-speaking American of Irish descent from Minnesota—the same state as his petite, blue-eyed vivacious wife. They make a popular couple around Muscat's only sizeable hotel, the Al Falaj; where other semi-permanent guests form an insociety within the in-society of one of the world's farthest-away places.

The Quinlans arrived in early June as part of the whirlwind of developers, diplomats, consultants, businessmen and returning exiles who have flocked to this capital city since it opened its gates to the outside world in 1970.

It was July 23, 1970, when Sultan Said Bin Qabus overthrew his despotic father in a palace coup which ended 38 years of repressive and authoritarian rule.

Dark Ages' Existence
During the old Sultan's time, smoking in public was banned. No foreign travel was permitted. The Sultan permitted no schools, no hospitals and very little else to be built. He ruled the country by radio telephone from Salalah, 800 miles down the coast, and did not visit Muscat once during the last 12 years of his reign.

The 31-year-old Qabus changed all that. He instituted major port, airport and road construction projects, hospital and school buildings. In came the experts and the diplomats.

But because practically no building had been done in Muscat for scores of years, the new arrivals have had to scramble for accommodations.

Also living in the Quinlans' hotel are the new Jordanian and Iranian ambassadors. All are either looking for premises suitable to house an embassy or are waiting for buildings to be constructed.

"Opening missions is getting to be a habit with me," said Quinlan, who is charge d'affaires in Oman reporting to an ambassador in Kuwait. "I did the same thing in Sana, North Yemen."

But he is happy about the chore. His 30 rials ($80) a day air-conditioned suite is comfortably furnished, tastefully decorated in orange and beige and its two rooms provide space for a desk, office machinery and a filing cabinet.

"Once we get a fridge installed, we will be fine," he said.

Being on the edge of the Arabian world has its disadvantages. "We try to keep in touch with the news by radio but it's mainly a matter of waiting five days for the International Herald-Tribune," he said.

Quinlan is planning to have apartments built for a residence and a separate office, where he will soon be joined by a commercial counselor.

Until then, most projects—such as a possible public-service library eagerly canvassed by education-hungry Omanis—must be processed only on the drawing board.

Reither On Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — A large diesel powered boat, the Sioux City, of the Sioux City, New Orleans barge lines took water here Saturday and attracted considerable attention in a community where towboats are commonplace.

Size and appearance caused the attraction, as the big craft had just been painted and was in sock and span shape.

The ten barges of the tow had been tied off just downstream from the local dock and the boat's water line was hooked up to the Beardstown supply to fill up her tanks.

The water supply on the boat is 20,000 gallons, and the fuel supply is 30,000 a member of the crew said.

The water take began at 7 a.m. and was continuing at 10 a.m. with tanks not yet full. A supply of drinking water was also to be taken on her, the crew member said.

The tow of the boat included 8 barges filled with coal and two filled with grain.

Members of the crew said this was the first time they had been ashore here, although the boat had been running the Illinois river for some time. They said they would rather be on the Illinois in the summer than in the winter because of the heavy ice which sometimes impedes boat traffic in this station section.

Potpourri: John Musgrove of the Beardstown Hardware company is working a night shift for Oscar Mayer. His Milly has things well in hand at the store.

The Buck Baxters, whose exodus was reported here last week, have purchased a condominium apartment at Sun City, Arizona. It's understood Mrs. Nick Carter has also moved to this type of quarters.

The Baxters disposed of their property near Rushville by auction. Buck is a former Beardstown businessman and railroadman and his wife is a Beardstown gal, both well known here. Her premarriage name was Dorothy Clark, a BHS grad.

Whitaker Gets Training Praise

(Editor's note: The following story, from a newspaper in Hattiesburg, Miss., the training camp of the New Orleans Saints, deals with former Jacksonville High School athlete Creston Whitaker, now training with the NFL club.)

HATTIESBURG — Creston Whitaker is an old hand at playing the role of understudy. But not always with as rewarding results as Saturday's (July 22), before a first night Saints' audience of 15,500.

It was Whitaker who stepped front and center playing opposite Danny Abramowicz at wide receiver when Margene Adkins decided to "cut class" because of personal reasons.

And in the shew-must-go-on tradition, Creston responded with five catches for 51 yards, most by anyone, in a 28-16 triumph for the offense over the defense.

"I was surprised to start under those conditions," Whitaker admitted. "But I don't try to anticipate anything at this stage of the game. I know anything can happen and I try to stay ready."

"I have had previous experience at the Ram training camp and this taught me to be flexible," Whitaker was the second to last player cut by the Rams last year, winding up on the Saint cab squad.

"The true virtue of a pro athlete is to be ready when called upon. That's what made Edd Hargett so great here last year," the article 6-2, 187-pound 24-year-old with a prematurely receding hairline pointed out.

Creston had a similar experience only a year ago when Jack Snow, stellar Ram wide receiver, was injured and had to miss the "Hall of Fame" game against the Oilers.

Whitaker came away from Canton, Ohio with a fractured wrist, as a souvenir and played the rest of the pre-league games with a cast. He was more fortunate Saturday night with only a bruised elbow as a consequence.

The Saint brochure lists Whitaker as a graduate of North Texas State, who didn't play college football. Both statements are correct and take a bit of explaining.

Creston, a native of Jacksonville, Ill., actually started his collegiate career at Southern Illinois on a baseball scholarship. Of course, the Salukis are best known as the first small college to win a major cage tournament when they upset Marquette in the 1967 NIT.

So it was only natural for Whitaker to go out for the basketball team. "I broke my leg and couldn't play baseball," Whitaker recalled with a sheepish grin.

But this story had a happier ending than the episode with the Rams. Whitaker not only got to play on that NIT championship squad, but he was a backup man for the great Walt Frazier of New York Knicks fame, no less.

"I was his understudy and got to start a couple of games," Creston went on. "And you know what? Until this day we're close friends."

Despite the Salukis' instant fame, Whitaker set out for greener pastures or was it prairies at North Texas State. "I wanted to play for a major college and where could you find a better basketball conference than the Missouri Valley," Creston explained.

He had to sit out a year, but it was worth it as his senior year brought All-MVC honors. That was 1970 and both the Milwaukee Bucks and Harlem Globetrotters vied for Whitaker's talents. "But like Bill Russell once said, when you lose your desire or urge, it's time to move on to another thing."

"I hadn't played football since my high school days and I was a running back," the former second baseman - backcourter continued.

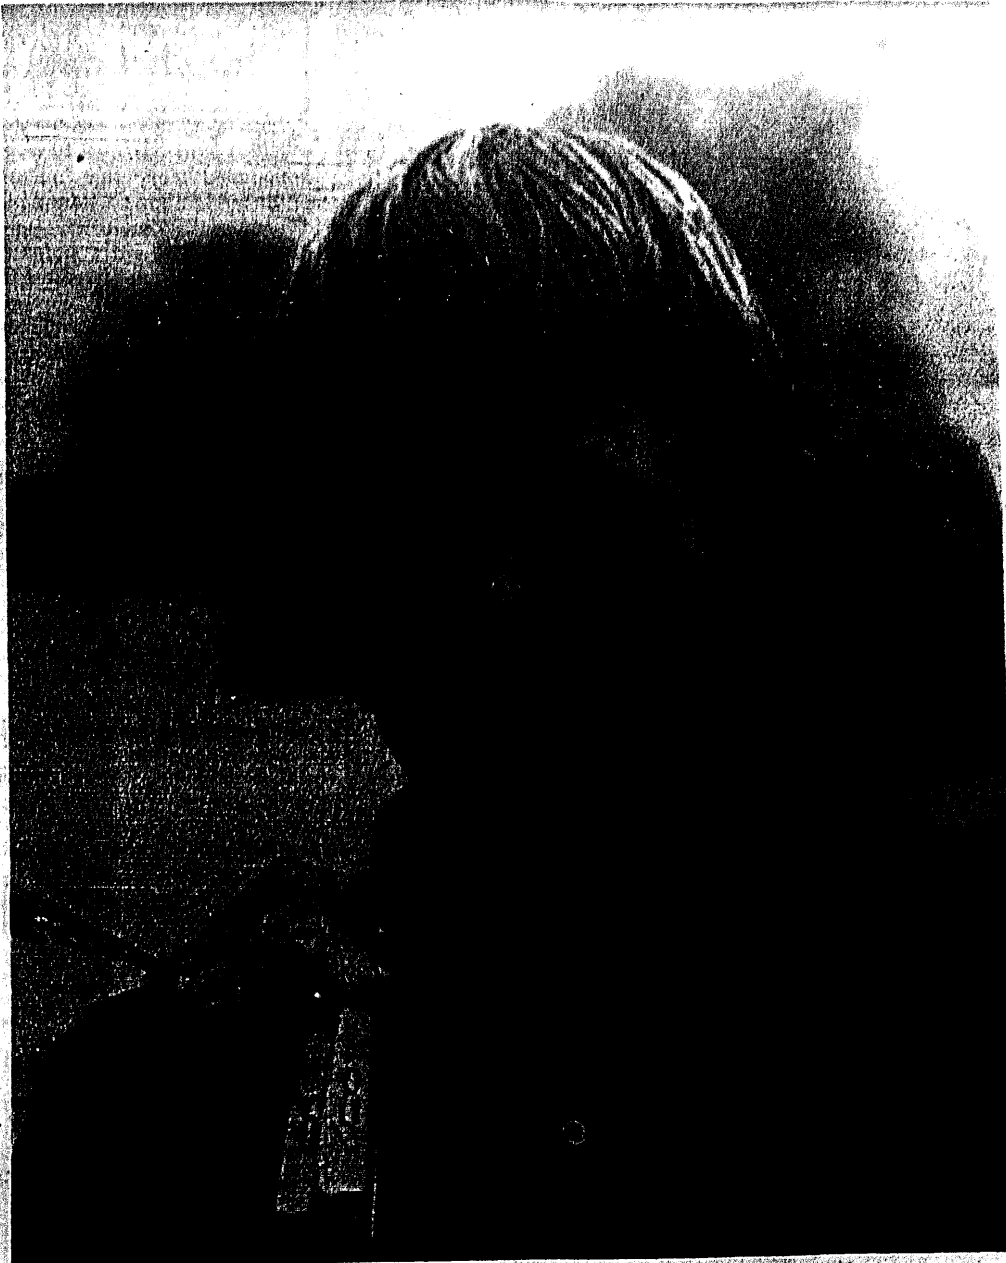

"But professional football was a challenge and I like to meet challenges, so I got a tryout with the Rams and made the team."

Whitaker spent what would have been his rookie year on active duty with the National Guard and then came the mishap in last season's Hall of Fame opener and the eventual cut.

"The Saints picked me up immediately," Creston reminisced. "But unforeseen circumstances prevented me from staying and I had to go home. They contacted me and asked me to return and I did get back in time to be on the cab squad for the last half of the season."

When the Saints acquired Adkins to go along with proven wide receivers like Danny Abramowicz, Al Dodd and Bob Newland, things weren't looking up this year either for Whitaker.

But Saturday night's unexpected assault on the spotlight might have changed things and made his stock go up.

BIRMINGHAM, MICH.: Brian Allin, of Santa Barbara, Calif., holds up his six and eight irons to show his score for the first round Thursday in the 54th PGA Championship at Oakland Hills. Allin's score was good enough to earn him a tie for the lead. (UPI Wirephoto)

Pirates Tip Cards 2-1 In 10 Innings

St. Louis (AP) — Vic Davalillo hit a two-out, two-on single to center to break a tie and lift the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in 10 innings in National League action Thursday night.

Davalillo's hit followed two-out singles by Gene Alley and pinch hitter Milt May. The inning ended a three-hit pitched performance by Cards' starter Rick Wise, 10-12.

Lou Brock's second of three singles drove in the tying run in the fifth inning as Cardinals tied the Pirates 1-1.

Brock drove a pitch over shortstop Alley's head to score Dal Maxvill, who had walked and advanced on pitcher Wise's sacrifice.

Steve Blass, 12-5, and Wise engaged in a tight mound duel after the Pirates' Dave Cash tripled home Willie Stargell following a walk in the second inning.

Wise was touched for a lead-off single by Blass in the third inning, then retired 15 straight batters before Cash led off the Pirates' eighth with his second hit.

Cubs Divide Two On Hands' 1-Hitter

MONTREAL (AP) — Bill Hands stopped the Montreal Expos on one hit—Ken Singleton's single—in pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 3-0 triumph and a split in their National League twilight doubleheader Thursday.

The Expos won the first game 2-1 on Ron Woods' pinch-hit, bases-loaded single in the 13th inning.

Hands, 9-7, lost a no-hitter in the opener with one out in the Expos' seventh.

Clyde Mashore walked to mar his perfect game and Singleton followed with a high chopper which went off Hands' glove into right field.

The Chicago pitcher then walked Ron Fairly to load the bases but ended the inning when he got Boots Day to hit into a double play.

The Cubs went ahead in the first inning with a run off Carl Morton, 5-10.

Chicago took a 3-0 lead with a pair of runs in the sixth, chasing Morton.

Hands struck out three and walked two.

In the first game, Woods' extra-inning heroics made Mike Marshall the winner in relief. The Montreal fireman pitched 6 2-3 innings of shutout baseball and picked up his ninth victory in 12 decisions and second in three nights against the Cubs.

He allowed only three hits and struck out five.

Lady Golfer May Resort To Legal Action

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Attorneys for pro Sandra Palmer indicated Thursday they may take legal action against the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) for placing her on probation for a year.

Miss Palmer has been outspoken in defense of fellow pro Jane Blalock, who earlier had been suspended by the LPGA for a year for alleged unethical conduct.

LPGA Executive Director E. M. Erickson, in announcing the probation action against Miss Palmer, said it was for "statements which appeared in print in other cities" and which he added were "detrimental to the LPGA and against the code of ethics."

Miss Blalock, this year's leading money winner on the ladies pro circuit, won a court order allowing her to continue playing golf until her lawsuit against the LPGA is settled.

This is real whiskey all right. There's nothing shy about it. But it may well be the most civilized whiskey ever made.

Durham Asks WBA To Find Frazier Foe

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Floyd Patterson, George Foreman and Oscar Bonavena, but was unable to get anything settled.

"They're (the WBA) on my neck, so let them designate a suitable fight," said Durham. "We're ready to fight anybody."

Since defeating Ali in March 1971, Frazier has defended his title only twice, stopping both Terry Daniels and Ron Stander. Frazier already has defeated Bonavena twice.

Durham said he had tried to set up a match with the unbeaten Foreman for next month, but Foreman signed to fight Bonavena.

Durham said he had scoured the rest of the top 10 heavyweight contenders including

FB Exhibition Tilts Get In Full Swing

Quarterback John Walton, in his fourth year as a "rookie" with the Los Angeles Rams, may get his chance in the spotlight Friday night when the Rams play host to the Cleveland Browns in a National Football League pre-season clash.

Walton, the Rams' No. 3 quarterback when training camp opened, is expected to get the starting nod since veterans Roman Gabriel and Jerry Rhyme are hampered by injuries.

Gabriel suffered a collapsed lung in the opening days of camp and is not expected to start throwing hard until next week. Rhyme was burned in a fire at his home Monday and is doubtful for the Cleveland game.

All of which paves the way for Walton, signed by the Rams as a free agent in 1969 after playing college ball at Elizabeth City State in North Carolina.

In his first season, Walton was sent to Indianapolis, where he was the Most Valuable Player of the Continental League.

The next two years were spent on the Rams' taxi squad, so this year Walton technically is a fourth-year rookie.

What's more, the 6-foot-2, 190-pound Walton is a minority within a minority—he's a black quarterback. James Harris, a reserve at Buffalo, is the only veteran black quarterback in the NFL. Besides Walton, rookies Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State and Karl Douglas of Texas A&I, are trying to make it with Pittsburgh and Baltimore, respectively. And that's it.

Rams Coach Tommy Prothro had said he would not decide between Rhyme and Walton as a starter against Cleveland until game-time, but the burns to Rhyme's shoulders have made wearing shoulder pads painful and he is not expected to play. The only other healthy quarterbacks in camp are rookies Mike Yanceff of Rutgers and Eddie Phillips of Texas. But Yanceff is being tried as a punter and Phillips as a defensive back.

In other NFL pre-season games Friday night, Washington plays Baltimore at Tampa, Fla. and St. Louis is at Buffalo. Saturday afternoon, Kansas City meets Chicago at South Bend, Ind., while Saturday night Cincinnati is at Green Bay, Houston at Dallas, Miami at Detroit, New England at Oakland, the New York Jets battle San Francisco at Jacksonville, Fla., the New York Giants play at Pittsburgh and Atlanta is at San Diego.

Closing out the NFL's first full weekend of exhibitions, New Orleans meets the Eagles Monday night at Philadelphia. Denver and Minnesota are not scheduled.

Douglas, on Baltimore's taxi squad last year, is expected to play the first three quarters for the Colts, with veteran Johnny Unitas possibly seeing action in the fourth period. Redskins Coach George Allen, meanwhile, says he'll go with 1971 hero Billy Kilmer at QB for the first half, and former NFL passing champion Sonny Jurgensen for the second half.

Coach Bob Holtway will display his new-look Cardinals, who have former Viking Gary Cuozzo at quarterback and former Packer Donny Anderson and former Charger Leon Burns at running back. Buffalo's top new man, No. 1 draftee Walt Patulski of Notre Dame, is not expected to play because of a knee injury suffered at the College All-Star camp.

Notre Dame Stadium will be the site of the debut of Abe Giron as head coach of the Bears, who are expected to go with left-handed Bobby Douglass at quarterback. The Chiefs, 23-17 winners over the Giants in the Hall of Fame game last week, will start veteran Len Dawson at QB, then use former Notre Dame John Huarte and rookie Dean Carlson.

Paul Brown of the Bengals will begin his 38th season of coaching—his 22nd in the pro ranks. With the retirement of Bart Starr, young Scott Hunter has a full shot at Green Bay's starting QB job, while former Cardinal MacArthur Lane teams with John Brockington in the offensive backfield.

In the battle of Texas, Bill Peterson makes his pro debut at the helm of the Oilers, going against the Super Bowl champion Cowboys, 20-7 winners over the College All-Stars.

New England will take a long look at Odell Lawson, expected to step in at running back for the traded Jim Nance. Rejoining the veteran Raiders is wide receiver Warren Wells, who missed the entire 1971 season.

Newly-signed Joe Namath will lead the Jets against the 49ers, who have their own high-priced quarterback in John Brodie. But reserves Bob Davis of New York and Steve Spurrier of San Francisco are expected to see considerable playing time.

Giants quarterback Randy Johnson completed 10 of 18 passes against the Chiefs and is expected to start, while the Steelers feature former Giant John Fuqua at running back.

Bob Berry still is the No. 1 QB at Atlanta, but Helman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan of Auburn, the All-Star game MVP, joins Dick Shiner and Leo Hart as challengers. San Diego's lineup has holdover QB John Hadl and a host of new faces, such as defensive ends Deacon Jones and Lionel Aldridge, defensive tackle Dave Costa, linebacker Tim Rossovich and running back Dick Edwards. One new comer not expected to play is running back Duane Thomas, acquired from the Cowboys during the week.

Nance, the former Patriot, is scheduled to open at running back for the Eagles. The Saints will test a number of new players on defense, including former Cowboy Tom Stincic, former Redskins Bob Grant and rookie Willie Hall at linebacker.

Surprise Pace-Setters

Allin, Thirsk Nab PGA Lead

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Buddy Allin, freckle-faced and friendly as the neighborhood delivery boy, trimmed two strokes off par with a 68 and tied obscure club pro Stan Thirsk for the first round lead in the 54th PGA national championship Thursday.

Thirsk, a 44-year-old from Shawnee Mission, Kan., put on a blazing finish in the grove of gloom of early evening to snatch a share of the lead as the game's great names had their problems and the surprise pace-setters swept into the top spot with practically no attention or fanfare.

Thirsk, whose greatest claim to fame was a fourth in last year's club pro championship, was one of the last to finish and most of the gallery had gone home when he birdied the 17th from six feet to gain a share of the lead.

He was one of the few players all day to reach the demanding 18th green in two and two-putted for a par that threw it into a tie.

Allin also slipped into his share of the top spot almost unnoticed.

Many in the gallery of 19,200 had their backs turned when the skinny, 27-year-old Allin, a four-times decorated veteran of Vietnam, saved par on the double tough 18th hole with a three-foot putt that gave him the lead alone in this, the last of the season's four major championships.

His name didn't appear on the big leader boards—the boards scattered around the course that kept the public informed of the progress of the tournament leaders—until he had finished.

The relatively obscure tour sophomore enjoyed something approaching privacy in his trek over the 7,054 yards of rolling countryside that make up the Oakland Hills Country Club course.

"The only gallery I had was whatever was standing around the greens," Allin shrugged with a shy smile.

And his lead-saving par on the 459-yard 18th caused little or no excitement since no one knew he was anywhere close to the lead.

Most of the gallery, in fact, still was buzzing over the scrambling 69 posted by Arnold Palmer, the bland and indifferent 72 Jack Nicklaus had, or were looking for a spot in the mob that was forming to follow Lee Trevino over the rain-slick hills.

Those who did accompany the flamboyant Super Mex gave a groan of dismay when he took a double bogey five on the second hole en route to a 73 that left him well back in the pack.

"It wasn't all that bad," said the Golden Bear, whose preparations for this one were curtailed by a badly infected finger that required minor surgery last week.

Even with his ailment—he insists the finger is healed and is not a factor—he was one of the top choices for the $40,000 first prize, which would represent a record 14th major title.

Trevino was the No. 1 choice, but his hopes suffered a major jolt with that shattering five on the par three third hole.

"I got away with a dumb round today," Trevino said. "But I think the man who wins this is going to have a 73 or 74 before Sunday is over."

Palmer, who hasn't won in almost 12 months, had a wildly erratic effort. He holed one putt of 25 feet, another from about 12, chipped it stiff once and hit a couple of crisp irons, all for birdies.

But the muscular man from Latrobe, Pa. three-putted twice and on two other occasions took three from the fringe.

Allin won the Greensboro Open last year in his rookie season but pulled out of a lengthy slump with a second place finish in the Milwaukee open three weeks ago.

"I've been playing a little better lately," he said. "I've been up there a few times lately and I feel I can handle it (the pressure) much better now."

He said a chipping rip from Al Geiberger, his partner in last week's Team Championship, was a key factor in his effort.

"It probably saved me three strokes," Buddy said.

White Sox Nip Angels By 4-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Luis Alvarado drilled a two-run triple in the last of the eighth inning to unlock a tie and send the Chicago White Sox to a 4-2 American League baseball victory over the California Angels Thursday night.

Alvarado's winning hit came after the Angels tied the game 2-2 in the top of the eighth.

Alvarado delivered his triple with two outs after walks to Carlos May and Mike Andrus. The hit made a winner of Chicago starter Wilbur Wood, 17-11.

Ed Herrmann gave Chicago a 2-0 lead in the fourth with a two-run single, but the Angels battled back on Ken Berry's homer in the fifth and Hiatt's first circuit shot of the year in the eighth.

Phils Trip
Mets Again,
Win 4-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny Doyle homered and Willie Montanez drove in a run with a long double as the Philadelphia Phillies recorded a 4-1 victory over the New York Mets Thursday, their third straight.

Doyle blasted his solo home run into the right field stands in the third inning to open the scoring against Gary Gentry, 5-8.

In the sixth, Gentry walked Deron Johnson with the bases loaded, forcing in Doyle. The Phils scored again in the inning when Don Money drove in Tom Hutton with a sacrifice fly.

Montanez' double in the eighth brought in Larry Bowa before rain delayed play for 20 minutes.

The Mets' only score in the National League baseball game came in the seventh off Barry Lersch, 2-4, when Duffy Dyer scored as Tommie Agee grounded out.

Padres Conquer
Atlanta Again,
6-5 In Eleven

ATLANTA (AP) — Dave Roberts stroked the third of three straight San Diego singles to drive in a run and give the Padres a 6-5 victory over the Atlanta Braves in a 11-inning National League game Thursday night.

Jerry Morales, batting for winning pitcher Mike Corkins, 3-5, singled and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Darrell Thomas followed with a single to move Morales to third before Roberts, a rookie third baseman, slapped his safety to left.

The Braves had tied the game 5-5 in the eighth when Jim Breazeale belted a pinch-hit home run into the right-field seats, scoring behind Marty Perez, who had singled.

Meanwhile, San Diego slugger Nate Colbert continued his assault on the National League record book with a two-run homer in the opening inning off Ron Reed.

Colbert's smash was his eighth this week, tying the league record set by Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh in 1947 and tied by Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati in 1956. The major league mark is 10 by Frank Howard of Washington in 1968.

Colbert, who leads the majors with 31 homers and 84 runs batted in, smacked five in a doubleheader here Tuesday night and belted two at Houston on Sunday. He also had 19 RBI for the week, including 15 in the series against Atlanta.

Curt Blefary also homered for the Padres, a solo shot in the sixth.

About Her Sports Background

Raquel Welch Gives It To You Straight

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Raquel Welch doesn't fake it. That's one thing you have to give her.

You've gotta give her a couple of other things, too, but the big thing that struck me sitting there listening to her talking about sports in her large, comfortable suite at the St. Regis Hotel was how she didn't try to palm herself off as something she's not, which some movie people have been known to do.

Raquel Welch finds herself talking a little more about sports now because of her latest picture, "Kansas City Bomber," released nationally yesterday.

In the movie, she plays the title role, a Roller Derby queen, by probably the name you know it better, a Roller Derby queen, who starts from the bottom of the pack and literally elbows and muscles her way to fame and personal independence.

I wasn't sure whether Raquel Welch was interested in my previous stop before her but it happened to be Joe Namath's news conference, and when she heard he'll be getting a half-million over the next two years her reaction was immediate and emphatic.

"That's good," she said. "He's worth it."

"You like him?" I asked her.

"Yes," she said. "I don't know him intimately, we only had one date, but he was very nice. Natural. I found him unassuming."

When it comes to her own background in sports or athletics, Raquel Welch gives it to you straight.

"I was never athletically inclined," she says, and in her case it doesn't seem to have held her back much or affected her popularity. "I was chicken. I was always afraid I'd break a leg."

Her fears proved founded in "Kansas City Bomber." She got all sweaty up, took six months learning how to skate and wound up with a split lip, a spasm in her trapezius (relax, men, that's only a back muscle), and a broken wrist.

"What do you know about Kansas City?" I asked her.

She came up straight arrow again. She didn't try covering up by throwing around names like the Chiefs or the Royals but honestly admitted:

"Not much. I've never been there."

Raquel Welch says the two sports she "digs" most are football and boxing. Least, baseball and golf.

"The thing I don't like about baseball is its slowness," she says. "Football is different. The whole team moves at the same time. Golf? Well, I don't think, for example, I could wait hours for my husband to come back from the golf course."

Speaking of husbands, Raquel doesn't happen to have one at the moment. But how does she think she'd feel being married to a professional athlete? She mulled that one over a couple of moments.

"I never did a fantasy about that," she said. "I never fantasized being married to say, a Joe DiMaggio. I'd imagine professional athletes to be very gentle people, and I think they'd be more at ease among men. In their spare time I imagine they'd like to be with the boys."

Insofar as some of the individual professional sports go, Raquel Welch does admit to a few favorite performers.

Like: Boxing—"I admire Joe Frazier and think he deserves a lot of credit. All is my favorite, though. Maybe it's a cliché, but I think he has done a lot for boxing. He's a beautiful fighter."

Football—"Joe Namath. And Jim Brown. I worked with him and I'm very much aware. There was an all-time great. There was a time when we were not on very good terms, but all that difference has been resolved within the last year."

Basketball—"Wilt Chamberlain. My little boy, Damon, is very stuck on him and I watch him a lot."

Golf—"As I say, I'm not a fan of golf, but I'd have to say Lee Trevino. From all I've read and heard about him he has a dynamic personality."

Baseball—"Sandy Koufax. I saw him pitch once and thought he was simply fantastic. I enjoyed his act on the mound. I loved all the stuff he did. I don't even know who he was pitching against or whether he won or lost. All I can say is I was a little transfixed with his particular style."

Raquel Welch had better be careful.

Next thing you know she'll become a baseball fan.

Chambliss Stars
As Tribes Drops
Orioles By 4-3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Chris Chambliss drilled three hits and sparked two rallies and Tom Hilgendorf and Phil Hennigan combined on a seven-hitter as the Cleveland Indians stopped the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 Thursday night in American League baseball action.

Chambliss, who singled on the first inning, doubled in both the fourth and fifth innings to highlight two-run rallies in each frame as the Indians wiped out an early 1-0 Baltimore lead.

After Jack Brohamer opened the fourth with a single, Chambliss doubled to keep the rally alive. Roy Foster then walked to load the bases and Graig Nettles delivered the first run of the inning with a sacrifice fly. The Indians took a 2-1 lead when Chambliss came home on Ray Fosse's double.

In the fifth, Chambliss drilled a two-out double to right center and came in with the first run of the frame on Foster's double. Nettles then singled to center, scoring Foster to beat what eventually proved to be the winning run.

The Orioles came back with two runs in the sixth on Brooks Robinson's two-run homer, but were held the rest of the way by Hennigan's fine relief pitching.

Bulls' Owners
Agree To Sell

CHICAGO (AP) — The nine owners of the Chicago Bulls agreed Thursday night to submit to the National Basketball Association's board of governors an offer to buy the NBA club made by a Chicago group including Arthur Wirtz, owner of the Chicago Stadium.

The owners voted unanimously last week to sell the Bulls to the group. Official approval of the NBA is needed before the sale can be finalized.

Previously the NBA rejected the proposed sale of majority club interest to Marvin Fishman, former official of the Milwaukee Bucks of the NBA, and Canadian Peter Graham, owner of the San Diego International Sports Arena.

The offer of the Chicago group was not disclosed, but Fishman reportedly offered $4 million for the Bulls.

The NBA governors will meet Aug. 10 in Chicago.

Sanderson Loss Gets Bostonians

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Like the Godfather they made me an offer I couldn't refuse."

So jested Derek Sanderson after jumping from the champion Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League to sign a multi-year contract for a reported $2.6 million with the Philadelphia Blazers of the new World Hockey Association.

James Cooper, president of the Blazers, told a news conference Thursday that for the 1972-73 season Sanderson was "the highest paid professional athlete in all the world." He said Sanderson would make more this season than Bobby Hull, Wilt Chamberlain, Joe Namath or Pele, the highly paid South American soccer player.

Cooper refused to disclose the exact amount involved or the terms of the contract, stating, "I will only say that the money is in the range of the $2.5 and $2.6 million figures I've seen, and that the years involved are within the range of the 5 to 15 years I've read. It's definitely in that range."

Sanderson explained that he had given the Bruins every opportunity to match the Blazer's offer and that he made the switch with the blessings of Boston's top executive, Weston Adams Sr.

"I'm very, very close to Weston Adams Sr. and we've always been on very good terms," Sanderson said. "I discussed it with him and he told me 'as a friend, and not as an owner, I must tell you if that's the offer than you must go. I'm sorry to see you go.'"

Sanderson said the Boston fans, however, are not taking as lightly the loss of Bruins' stars to the WHA.

"They're very upset," Sanderson said. "I've been getting telegrams and letters and so has my attorney . . . and they wanted me to stay in Boston. They wanted to keep the hockey club intact so they could have a dynasty. But right before their eyes because of the competitiveness of this country, a dynasty has dissipated."

Boston has lost five players to the WHA, including goalie Gerry Cheevers (Cleveland); John McKenzie, (Philadelphia); and Ted Green, (New England), and rookie Ron Plumb (Philadelphia).

Sanderson said he didn't expect the NHL or its teams to stand by and watch their teams get raided. However, he noted, "Everybody has a right to make their living as best they can, as best they see fit. There will be no infringement against them (Bruins) as to my contract. I won't put on a pair of skates in a training camp with Philadelphia until my contract is void, which is Oct. 1."

The Twins scored two runs in the fourth off Texas starter Dick Bosman, 4-8, when Rich Reese singled home one run and Charlie Manuel brought in another with a sacrifice fly.

Minnesota added four runs on five hits in the fifth with Reese's two-run single the key blow. The Twins, touched reliever Billy Gogolewski for two more runs in the seventh and a run in the eighth.

Brewers Rip
Tigers Again
By 6-3 Count

DETROIT (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers continued to rip into Detroit pitching with an 11-hit assault, including three by George Scott, to beat the Tigers 6-3 Thursday night and complete a three-game sweep over the American League's East leaders.

The Brewers, last in the West, thus swept the front-runners in their hometown with a total of 45 hits and 28 runs in the three-game set. It gave Milwaukee an 8-4 edge over Detroit in the season's series.

The Tigers took a temporary 1-0 lead in the first inning with an unearned run, but then the Brewers grabbed the lead for good in the second as Scott singled and eventually scored along with Johnny Briggs on Eddie Rodriguez' two-run double.

Milwaukee kept the game out of Detroit's reach with a three-run rally in the third. Dave May and Scott each drove in runs with hits and another came in on a wild pitch by reliever Woody Fryman.

Briggs later hit his 18th homer of the year in the sixth inning. The Tigers added a run in the fourth on Ed Brinkman's run-ejected bouncer and in the eighth on Northrup's RBI grounder.

Ace Smith To Open Davis Tennis Semis

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — The United States sends its No. 1 ace, Stan Smith, against left-handed Manuel Orantes of Spain Friday in the opening match of the Davis Cup Inter-Zone tennis semifinals at the Royal Tennis Club.

"Remember 1965," is the battle cry of the Spaniards, recalling the upset of the Americans in the last Inter-Zone match here.

The second singles match has the United States' 19-year-old rookie, Harold Solomon of Silver Spring Md., against the formidable veteran Juan Gisbert.

The 114-page diary, lauded with four-letter words and lamentations of failure, described how Bremer pursued Nixon with a pistol during an April visit to Ottawa, Canada, re-treated in despair to Milwaukee, Wis., and then settled on Wallace while watching the film, "A Clockwork Orange."

The 21-year old former bus-boy and school janitor did not take the witness stand. He frequently laid his head on the defense table as the jury heard his private thoughts read by his lawyer, Benjamin Lipsitz.

"From the very beginning, I planned to get him (Nixon) at the Ottawa military airport addressing a happy Canadian crowd," wrote Bremer, who was denied entrance to the airport and had to take a position along the motorcade route into the Canadian capital.

He next recounted the first of a series of would-be assassination attempts.

"It went by before I knew it, like the snap of a picture. A dark silhouette rushed by in a black car. I had missed him that day. The best chance to get him was over."

Bremer said he later saw a car he believed was Nixon's outside the U.S. Embassy and ran back to his hotel to pick up his gun.

But, he said, he dallied to brush his teeth and waste time so as not to have to be conspicuous by waiting too long for the President to appear.

Bremer was disappointed later when Nixon failed to enter a crowd to shake hands. That night Bremer stalked him outside a concert.

"At this time, I also began thinking of following Nixon in Washington," he wrote, subsequently indicating in a jammed flashback passage that he traveled at least as far as Maryland in his quest to get near the President.

After failing in Canada, Bremer returned to Milwaukee in an apparent deep depression and complaints of physical pains, troubled sleeping, a desire for sex and a growing shrinking of a bankroll he said once totaled more than $1,000.

"I had to get rid of my thoughts," he wrote. "I went to the zoo down by the river, but that didn't work."

"I saw 'Clockwork Orange' and thought about getting Wallace all through the picture. I've decided Wallace will have the honor of — what would you call it?"

That was the first apparent mention of Wallace in the narrative. Later, there are passing references to shooting Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and to the publicity value of killing FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

"I hope my death makes more sense than my life," Bremer wrote before detailing his unsuccessful pursuit of Wallace in Michigan in the week preceding that state's May 16 presidential primary.

The narrative at times becomes confused, recording Bremer's thoughts on suicide, making money with his diary, gaining notoriety, and failing to get close to Wallace at rallies in Dearborn and Cadillac.

On May 8, he wrote: "Still, I don't know whether it's trial or prison for me or bye-bye brains. I'll have to decide that in the last few seconds."

The last diary passage written May 13 has Bremer "swearing, swearing, swearing" after the failure in Michigan and talking about heading to Maryland. "They have a primary, too," he noted.

TAVENDER EARNS BALL STATE DEGREE

MUNCIE, Ind. — Local area students were among the 461 students who completed work toward a degree at Ball State University at the end of the first summer term. They will be eligible to participate with second summer term graduates in commencement at 11 a.m., Friday, August 18, in Emens Auditorium.

Dr. Helen H. Sornson, first Ball State professor to receive the Outstanding Teacher Award, will be the commencement speaker.

Local students completing undergraduate and graduate programs include: Charles Stephen Tavender, 725 East State street, master of arts in special education.

For Sunday-night supper add small cooked shrimp and a little sherry to canned mushroom soup. After this course serve fruit salad.

FOR ASSEMBLY OF GOD

Women Push For Rights Plank In GOP Platform

WASHINGTON (AP) — With women delegates numbering about 30 per cent of the Republican National Convention, strong efforts will be made to put a women's rights plank into the GOP platform.

The National Women's Political Caucus said Thursday it will push for liberalized abortion laws and for equal civil, economic and human rights for women, ranging from a share in top policy government posts to child care programs.

Caucus leaders said they do not expect any of the issues to become convention floor battles as they did with the Democrats last month. They will be presented to the Republican National Committee hearings starting Aug. 14, a week before the convention in Miami Beach.

Leading the women's strategy will be Jill Ruckelshaus, wife of the head of President Nixon's Environmental Protection Agency.

She is a member of the policy council of the women's caucus, a bipartisan group formed a year ago to promote political power for women.

The women's rights plank is similar to one adopted by the Democrats. But, in calling for equal appointment of women to jobs of top responsibility, including the Supreme Court and Cabinet, it adds a call for "equal upward mobility for women in civil service, especially at low- and middle-management levels."

On abortion, a subject shunned by the Democrats, the proposed GOP plank mentions the word "abortion" and calls for "Repeal of laws that restrict the right of every woman to control her own reproductive and sexual life. Each woman, in accordance with her individual conscience, has the right to personally decide the question of abortion."

Passage of the abortion plank is considered unlikely, in part because President Nixon has opposed liberalized abortion laws. Other women's rights proposals are expected to get through the convention, however, as they did at the Democratic convention.

The GOP convention delegate strength of women has been officially announced at 402 out of the total 1,348—about 30 per cent.

The Democrats, with reform guidelines, had 1,271 women out of 3,189 delegates, or almost 40 per cent, at their convention.

ED TIGHE MAKES HOLY CROSS COLLEGE LIST

WORCESTER, Mass. — Of the eleven students from Illinois named to the spring semester's Dean's List for scholastic achievements at Holy Cross College here one is from Jacksonville, T. Edward Tighe, class of 1974.

The students have the distinction of being named to the last all-male Dean's List at Holy Cross. New England's oldest Catholic liberal arts college which is going coeducational this fall after 129 years.

Named to the Dean's List are students who receive at least a 3.5 average on the Holy Cross 4.0 (A) grading system.

WANT LAUNCHING RAMP, PARKING AT KAMPSVILLE

SPRINGFIELD — A bid from the board of supervisors, Greene County (courthouse at Carrollton) is among three received recently by Illinois division of waterways, for a construction permit, according to information released by transportation secretary William F. Cellini.

The Greene supervisors asked for a permit to construct a boat launching ramp and parking area on the left bank of the Illinois River at Kampsville.

CHIROPRACTOR MOVES FROM BROWN TO CASS

MT. STERLING — Dr. John C. VanGieson, who has maintained a chiropractor office and practice here the past several years has moved his office to Beardstown, where the family took up residence several months ago. Dr. T. W. Shaw of Quincy will retain the office and practice in Mt. Sterling.

Holliman To Disney

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Earl Holliman will star in Disney's "Big Enough," an 1890s drama for the 1972-73 "Wonderful World of Disney" television series.

ATTEMPTED THEFT AT TWO LOCATIONS

An attempted burglary was reported to city police at 11:36 p.m. Wednesday at Dave's Coffee Shop on the corner of Sandusky and West Walnut St.

The proprietor, Dave Jones of 950 North Church St., told police that a coin box on a Coke machine had been pried on. No cash was taken.

Patrolling police discovered another attempted burglary at 2:43 a.m. Thursday at the Scotch Wash on East Morton Ave. Upon investigation they found another Coke machine to have been pried on, also unsuccessfully.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Progeria Strictly Child's Disease

THIS IS A
Welcome Wagon
COMMUNITY
Let us welcome you!

245-4525

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would it be possible for a woman past 50 to develop progeria? She has been a heavy cigarette smoker for about 35 years. She started premature aging about two years ago. Her face is so full of tiny wrinkles she looks 80 and is shriveling up like a mummy. Also she's getting bald. Is there some particular vitamin she could take that would help her skin? She is not overweight but she refuses to have a checkup.

Any advice you can give will be greatly appreciated.

Dear Reader — No, Progeria is a disease that affects infants and children. It is an endocrine disorder which results in a 10- or 12-year-old boy having many of the manifestations of a 70- or 80-year-old man, including heart disease and baldness. A person who starts developing signs of aging at 50 wouldn't be in that category at all.

There are some points in your letter worth noting. Heavy cigarette smokers are inclined to marked wrinkling of the face, particularly the crow's feet at the edge of the eyes and the network of fine wrinkles. The heavy smoker may have a wrinkled face similar to that of a person 20 years older than his actual age.

If more women realized that heavy cigarette smoking caused premature aging of their face, specifically deep wrinkling, they might think twice about their habit. You can do a little test on this and look around at your acquaintances and you will note that the heavy smokers more often have more deeply wrinkled faces than your friends who are nonsmokers.

There are many causes for loss of hair, but it is more common in women when they reach the middle years or change in life.

The lady that you mentioned should have a medical examination. She may have a marked change in endocrines associated with the change in life. If this is the case and there is no other problem, she might benefit from female hormones.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can you give me some information about wearing an IUD? I have had one about 10 years now and I have never had any trouble with it, not even at the beginning. I haven't had a pelvic examination except for cancer smears in six years. I can't feel the IUD, but then never could that I remember. Several of my friends who have worn them have recently told me that it is very dangerous to wear one this long as it can work itself into the tissues and cause cancer. Now I'm worried. I'm 32 years old. Is there any truth to this?

Dear Reader — Don't worry. You've been listening to uninformed people who would do better to do more listening and less talking. There is no evidence that the IUD causes cancer. With extensive reading I haven't observed a single reported case of cancer that has been proved to be caused by the IUD. Nor is there any evidence that it works itself into the tissues of the womb. I do approve, however, of regular examination, but perhaps you've been getting one in conjunction with your cancer smear. If there were any real danger in your using the IUD, your doctor would have told you so.

If you have questions about the menopause, you'll want to read Dr. Lamb's booklet in which he answers your questions about this subject. Send 50 cents to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for "Menopause" booklet.

HOSPITAL WORK BIDS TO OPEN AT BEARDSTOWN

BEARDSTOWN — Advertising for bids on contracts to let for the new hospital building program here, and other preliminary procedures are expected to be put in operation in the next six weeks.

Bob Donaldson, president of the hospital board of trustees, assumes progress will include the above schedule timing, according to information he has since attending a meeting in Chicago between hospital authorities and governmental personnel.

Coordination of HEW and HUD participation in the program occurred at the Chicago meeting to substantiate the announcement made here.

Business—Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Simple efficiencies in the use of electricity, mainly in lighting, could significantly reduce energy usage and reduce the impact of power shortages that exist in some regions and threaten elsewhere.

This is the considered judgment of many electrical engineers, who also claim that not only energy but many millions of dollars could be saved in operating costs.

At the recent annual meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society, newly elected president Richard Dorsey of General Electric stated that 90 per cent of lighting systems produce only half as much light as possible for the energy consumed.

Other engineers claim that even those systems that deliver light efficiently still waste energy by generating so much heat that air-conditioning systems are forced to overwork.

The possible savings in energy and money have yet to be worked out, but it is estimated the buildings account for 20 per cent of industrial-commercial energy consumption and that 20 per cent of that is for lighting.

George Clark, IES senior vice president and engineering manager for special projects of Sylva Electric, estimates that better usage in these structures could reduce their energy consumption by 15 to 25 per cent.

The critical nature of such savings is made clear in the perspective of rising energy costs and recurring power shortages—even blackouts of increasing frequency and size—in some regions of the country.

The possible efficiencies about which Dorsey and Clark speak are possible not only through correction of wasteful practices of the past but through the use of relatively recent advances in producing more lumens from the same wattage.

An incandescent lamp, most widely recognized of all, produces only 10 lumens—a measure of light quantity—per watt. But more recently developed lamps produce 10 times as many lumens without color distortion.

Other efficiencies are possible, Clark said, through more frequent cleaning fixtures and a regular program of lamp replacement. Many lamps remain in use beyond their effective life, producing less light but using no less energy.

Additional savings, in money and energy, are possible through the utilization in winter of the heat from lights and through the use of available systems for drawing off that heat in summer, he said.

Few buildings are so equipped today, but Clark and others believe that as an energy ethic develops—as builders realize that rising energy costs and availability is critical—waste will decrease.

Among other suggestions for conserving energy: Switches that permit lights to be turned on or off in part of a room rather than in a larger area; focusing light in work areas with less in circulation or conversation places.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
The City of Jacksonville, Illinois, will receive bids for proposed water main and sanitary sewer improvements until 4:45 p.m. on the 21st day of August, 1972, at the office of the City Clerk, Municipal Building, Jacksonville, Illinois.

The proposed improvements shall include approximately 345 lineal feet of 6" water main, valves, fittings, connection to existing water main, and 350 lineal feet of 8" sanitary sewer pipe and one standard 48" manhole, connection to existing sanitary sewer, and concrete removal and replacement, including the furnishing of all labor, material, equipment, and transportation to provide a complete installation, ready for continued use in service.

The successful bidder or bidders will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance payment bond in the amount of 100 per cent of the contract.

The contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of the City Clerk, Municipal Building, Jacksonville, Illinois.

Copies of the documents may be obtained from Casler and Associates, Consulting Engineers, 202 S. Church Street, Jacksonville, Illinois, by depositing $25.00 for each set of documents obtained; $15.00 will be refunded to those returning them in good condition within 10 days after the date of bid opening. Deposit checks will be made payable to Casler and Associates.

The City of Jacksonville reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informalities in bidding.

A certified check, bank draft, satisfactory bid bond or cash, payable to The City of Jacksonville in an amount not less than ten (10) per cent of the bid shall be submitted with each bid.

No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of bids without the consent of the City of Jacksonville, for a period of sixty (60) days after the scheduled time of closing bids.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Pittsburgh Rolls Out Beer Barrel

By RUDY CERNKOVIC
UPI Business Writer

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—This city's leadership in steel, aluminum, glass and other "hard" production is well known. It also rolls out the barrel on another product, beer.

The Pittsburgh area, because of the many mill towns, consumes a lot of beer. Orders for "boilermakers" (a shot of liquor with a beer) are traditional in taverns near mills and factories.

For years the Pittsburgh Brewing Co., producer of Iron City Beer, has been a leading purveyor in the area. Sales surpassed more than a million barrels annually. But they're down now. Iron City, which tried to mollify black consumer resentment, has been caught in a white "blue collar" backlash which cut profits more than half.

Profits, Sales Down
The brewery's report for the first six months of 1972 showed profits off 50.8 per cent and sales slumping 9.9 per cent. Company officials attributed the backsliding to the lagging economy, increased wages and other costs with no relief in selling prices.

Board Chairman Milton G. Hulme and President Louis J. Slais admitted there was another reason. They blamed "circulation of misleading information relative to the minority program adopted in February in an agreement signed with the NAACP" for some of the loss in profits.

That agreement, aimed at ending black criticism of the company's hiring policy, generated a white backlash, according to many brewery workers.

Taverns catering to blacks had conducted an 11-month "selective buying" campaign against Iron City beer.

Hiring Quotas
When the agreement was signed with black groups, the brewery had 42 black employees out of 600. The brewery agreed to hire more blacks and advertise regularly in black media. Within the next two years, the brewery said, two-thirds of all employees hired would be blacks.

The agreement also said Iron City would run from 26 to 52 advertisements annually in the Pittsburgh Courier, a black newspaper.

Iron City also promised to run the same number of advertisements with black-owned radio stations to include "announcements of black community interests."

At the same time the firm invested $20,000 in a black-operated savings and loan association, the Dwelling House Building and Loan Association, in the city's predominantly black "Hill District."

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices rallied for the third straight session in active trading Thursday, supported by hopes for a Vietnam peace settlement and favorable economic and earnings reports.

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 6.55 to 947.70. The blue-chip indicator has risen some 23 points in the past three sessions.

The market's advance showed a broad base in early trading, with advances leading declines by 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange. At the close, however, there were only 825 advances against 586 declines, out of 1,765 issues traded.

Robert Stovall, an analyst at Reynolds Securities Inc., said "it was the established growth leaders that gave the list a strong tone."

Analysts said the market needed to broaden the base of its advance to make it more than a technical rally.

"The market is certainly responding to improved second-quarter earnings and hopes for even better results in the third and fourth quarters," said Monte Gordon, a general partner at Sartorius & Co. "But it's still too early to say if this will be a sustained advance."

Technicians note that the market now is attempting to penetrate the 950-960 level on the Dow average which has proved difficult in the past few weeks.

Gillette, most-active Big Board issue, slipped 1/2 to 52 1/2. Amerasia Hess, second-most-active, fell 1/2 to 43. The company announced the naming of a new chairman and chief executive officer after recently reporting an earnings decline.

Third-most-active issue, Twentieth Century-Fox rose 1 1/2 to 10 1/2, a gain of 15.1 per cent. The company said it was entering the pay-television market through a joint venture with two other companies.

Sprague Electric, biggest percentage gainer, rose 2 to 12 1/2, an advance of 19.3 per cent. Dynamics Corp. of America, biggest percentage loser, dropped 3/4 to 2 1/4, a drop of 60.9 per cent. The company said Friday it would file a petition under the federal bankruptcy act.

CNA Financial rose 1 1/4 to 20, Kresge was active and up 1/4 to 45 1/4, Ford rose 1 to 66 1/4, U.S. Gypsum was unchanged at 25 1/4, American Airlines dropped 1 1/4 to 30 1/4, H & R Block slipped 1/4 to 11 and American General Insurance dipped 1/4 to 16 1/4.

Trustees Tighten Purchasing Policy

The South Jacksonville Village Board of Trustees disposed of several routine business matters in their Thursday night meeting.

The trustees unanimously passed a motion prohibiting village department heads from spending more than $25 for merchandise other than that on standing order without prior committee approval.

The board gave the local Boy Scout troop a boost by hiring them to paint the village's fire hydrants at 75 cents each. The $75 or so earned in the project will help finance a trip to Colorado for the scouts.

The board passed three resolutions authorizing the investment of water and sewer department funds in certificates of deposit at the Farmers State Bank.

Bond account funds of $14,000, $3,500 from the water bond reserve fund, and $1,000 from the security account are to be invested for one year at the highest interest rate available.

The board also authorized the transfer of $5,000 from state income tax rebates to the general fund.

President William Fanning announced the board would meet Aug. 10 to set tax levies for the next fiscal year. That meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

Trustee Harold O'Daffer reported that lightning damaged the control panel of the village's water pumping station at Oxville Wednesday night.

O'Daffer said the extent of the damage was not yet known but that customer service was not affected.

Roy Johnson, owner of Johnson's Color Mart, 1724 S. Main St., approached the board concerning a water drainage dispute with Robert Minor, a trustee who lives next to Johnson's store.

Johnson was told that the board had no authority to act in the matter since the dispute was between two private property owners.

Del Roman, the village inspector, reported that two permits for buildings valued at $23,800 had been issued last month.

The next regular meeting of the board is Aug. 17.

A. E. Henderson Of Beardstown Dies Wednesday

Miss Sparrow Is Crowned 1972 Burgoo Queen

By Mrs. James Cox (Winchester Correspondent) (742-3817 or 742-5566)

WINCHESTER — Climaxing the activities of the American Legion Burgoo was the crowning of the 1972 Miss Burgoo Queen Thursday evening.

Queen this year is Virginia Sparrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Sparrow of rural Winchester. Miss Marsha Ingram, 1971 Burgoo Queen, crowned her successor.

First runner-up is Melinda Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Todd of Winchester. Second runner-up is Paula Gourley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeLand Gourley of Glasgow.

Judges for the contest were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Black of White Hall and Mrs. Donald Lakin of Murrayville. Ushers were John Conrod and Mike Hubbs.

Little League Champions Champions in the Little League Divisions were decided Friday and Monday nights as the results of the games turned in.

Winning champion in the 11 and 12 year old division was Funk's Seeds, managed by Bill Brookhouse. They won the title by defeating First State Bank Monday night 11-5. Hugh McIntire manages the Bank team.

Funk's Seeds team consists of Don Brookhouse, Brad Howell, Lyle Jones, Tom Peterson, Mark Welsh, Alex Martin, Danny Smith, Mark Hamilton, Steve Bigalow, Gene Howard, Steve Zenge and Bill Ballard.

Winner in the 9 and 10 year old division was Alsey Refractories, managed by Norm Frossard. The Refractories led in the championship nearly all season. They were defeated by Fred Evans and Sons Friday night 11-10 but came back Monday and won a victory over Winchester National Bank 20-6.

Alsey Refractories team members are: Steve Halford, Mike Wisdom, Van Brown, Richard Boston, Brian Slater, Jeff Frossard, Gregg Palmer, Brad Scott, Scott Roehring and Terry Palmer.

Three Collisions Thursday

Three traffic collisions were investigated by city and state police Thursday.

Automobiles driven by Clarence K. Kirchhofer, 54, of 1 Barn Lane, and Dorothy L. Ward, 71, of 301 W. Beecher Ave., collided at the intersection of Morton Ave. and Diamond St. about 11:30 a.m.

Officers said the southbound Ward vehicle struck the westbound Kirchhofer automobile. Both drivers claimed the light was green in their lane; two witnesses said the Ward car ran the red light.

Neither driver was ticketed. Edna M. Lytle, 58, of 1629 S. East St., was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions after a collision at the corner of South Main and Franklin streets about 4:41 p.m.

Police said the Lytle automobile slid into the rear of a stopped car driven by Emory E. Hayes, 58, of Woodson.

Another rear-end collision occurred about 4:45 p.m. on Ill. 104 at Pisgan.

The investigating state trooper said a southbound pickup truck driven by Virgil R. Hayes, 58, of R. 5, Jacksonville, was stopped to make a left turn when it was struck.

The driver of the second vehicle, William J. Slouffe, 17, of Waverly, was cited for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

YOUTH GUILTY OF CRIMINAL DAMAGE

Robert H. Powers, 18, of 12 Dunlap Court, Apt. B, pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal damage to property Thursday morning in circuit court.

The defendant was granted one year's probation and ordered to serve seven and one-half days in Morgan county jail by Judge John Wright. Powers' driver's license was also suspended for a period of one year.

Fire Damages Lewis Pate Home Early Thursday

The Murrayville Volunteer Fire Department was called to the Lewis Pate residence, located one and a half miles west of Murrayville near Ill. 287, early Thursday.

The fire which was discovered about 5 a.m. was believed to have been started by lightning which struck a gas range in the kitchen. Mr. and Mrs. Pate and their two children, asleep at the time, were awakened by the smoke and escaped to safety.

Volunteer firemen who fought the blaze for about one hour reported heavy smoke damage throughout the house and fire damage to the kitchen.

No estimate of damage was given.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Coats, 126 West Chambers, became parents of a daughter at 3:28 a.m. Thursday at Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Evans of Winchester became parents of a son at 8:07 a.m. Thursday at Passavant hospital.

BEARDSTOWN MAN AT MUNICIPAL CLERK'S MEETING

BEARDSTOWN — Beardstown's city clerk, Henry Dufelmeier, attended a Municipal Clerk's meeting in Mt. Vernon Friday, July 21. He reports the featured speaker was the Decatur Planning Engineer who spoke on Capital Improvements and how to finance them. It was his stated view that all money received from Federal Revenue Sharing be used for such capital improvements. Dufelmeier stated the Decaturite said some cities had special taxes on telephones, lights, gas bills and the income is used for these improvements.

Lions Club Holds Induction

The Jacksonville Lions club met at the Ranch House restaurant on Tuesday evening, August 1st, with President Willard Fulkerson presiding.

Lion Dean Strubbe presented the Lion Information program on the subject of the purposes and objectives of Lionism, stressing that service to the community, humanitarian work and fellowship are the most important.

Lion C. D. "Doc" Brewer introduced past District Governor, LeRoy Sweet of the Franklin, Illinois Lions club. Lion Sweet conducted induction ceremonies that brought Roy Henzman and Lowell McCulley into membership with the Jacksonville Lions club.

Lion Karl Wagner introduced Barney Lewis of radio station WILDS. Mr. Lewis gave an informative talk on plans for the first annual Jacksonville Fall Festival. This event is being sponsored by the Downtown Jacksonville Associated Merchants and will be held in Central Park on September 8 and 9.

Tentative plans have been made for the club membership to attend a ballgame in St. Louis, on Tuesday evening, August 29th.

The next meeting of the club will be designated as "Farmer's night," to be held at the MacMurray College cabin on Tuesday evening August 15th. All club members are urged to bring a farmer friend as their guest. A steak fry with all of the trimmings will be served. All reservations for members and guests are to be sent to Lion Dean Strubbe by August 10.

Communist Slate Barred From Ballot

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Communist candidates for state and federal offices were barred from the November election ballot in Illinois Thursday after they refused to sign the oath.

But candidates from the Socialist Labor party won tentative spots on the ballot Thursday as they submitted nominating petitions containing 31,000 signatures and signed oaths from each office seeker.

"We don't necessarily approve of the oath," Edward C. Gross, a Chicago cab driver who is the Socialist Labor senatorial candidate, said. "But we don't see anything wrong with signing it to get on the ballot."

John Hofferkamp, an official of the Index Division of the Secretary of State's office, shuffled quickly through the stack of Communist petitions and asked, "you have not submitted the loyalty oaths?"

"No, we haven't," Becchetti said.

"You have not complied with the law and the state is now refusing to accept these petitions," Hofferkamp said.

The oath, approved by the Legislature in 1951, was overturned on a technical ground by a court in 1969 but reinstated after the lawmakers tacked on a one-word amendment.

State officials allowed former Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy on the March 21 presidential primary ballot, despite his refusal to take the pledge, ruling that candidates for federal offices could not be forced to sign.

But officials of the Index Division of the Secretary of State's office refused to differentiate between federal and state candidates of the socialist workers and Communist parties.

"I have to throw out the whole slate," said Donald Ed, head of the division.

The Socialist Laborites, whose 72-year-old party dwells only on the issue of capitalism versus socialism, took the occasion to blast both the socialist workers and communists.

"Our party is the most radical because we get right to the point," Gross said. "These other parties aren't really bona fide socialists because they talk about reforms like the Democratic party."

Asked about the charge, Becchetti shrugged, "You saw who got on the ballot, didn't you?"

HOLD WILEY RITES HERE THURSDAY

Funeral services for Fred F. Wiley were held at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at the Williamson Funeral Home with the Rev. Harry Evans officiating.

Mrs. G.O. Webster served as organist. LeRoy Hedrick sang "Amazing Grace."

The body was cremated following the services.

WINDOWS BROKEN AT CAB COMPANY

A report of criminal damage to property at the Cooney Cab Co. on North East St. was made to city police at 7 a.m. Thursday.

An employee of the company told authorities that several windows were broken on an overhead door on the North side of the building. No attempt at entry was made.

Bluffs Burgoo Soup Fascinates Editor

Nancy M. Davis, the diminutive, alert and industrious Foods Editor of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, went to Bluffs last Saturday to sample burgoo. She took with her Ted Dargan, a staff photographer, and Wednesday's issue of the paper carried a long, informative and well-written, well illustrated article on how burgoo is assembled and cooked in Bluffs.

She was also enthusiastic about the ples and cakes she sampled and she printed the recipe for Mrs. Nina Vortman's chocolate angel food cake and Mrs. Roy Beird's pecan pie.

She also published Mrs. W.E. Hatfield's burgoo recipe which makes three gallons of soup and which many people say is the best burgoo you can make on a stove, but that it simply doesn't come up to that cooked over a wood fire.

And she was absolutely amazed at the prices-soup, sandwich, pie and cake for "about a dollar."

To illustrate her article she used three of Dargan's shots: William H. Kilver, the postmaster and longtime soup maker, stirring a cauldron of fat hens; eleven women whitening the vegetables down to proper size, and the soup stirrers busy at work at the kettles.

Nancy reported that some 2,000 people came to Bluffs for the annual American Legion burgoo and that they cleaned up 800 gallons of soup and a boxcar load of other eatables.

She rather hinted that maybe she'd return for the Bluffs Civic club burgoo set for Sept. 2.

For the benefit of her readers she listed other burgoos on tap in this area: Chapin, Aug. 12; Meredosia, Sept. 4; and Arenzville, Sept. 6-7.

Illinois AFL-CIO Endorses Democrats

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois AFL-CIO endorsed the Democratic party ticket in Illinois Thursday but followed the national AFL-CIO in remaining neutral on the presidential contest.

Stanley L. Johnson, president of the Illinois AFL-CIO, said after a closed meeting of 200 delegates representing more than a million union members in Illinois, that Daniel J. Walker, Democratic candidate for governor, was the labor group's choice over Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, a Republican.

The union leaders also endorsed Neil Hartigan, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor; Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., who is running against Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and State Auditor Michael J. Howlett who is seeking the secretary of state post.

Johnson said, "The decision to support Daniel Walker was made after full debate on the candidates and their positions on labor issues. The delegates felt that Daniel Walker is running on a pro-labor platform."

State Sen. Thomas J. Lyons, D-Chicago, was endorsed for attorney general against incumbent Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

Dean Barringer, Democratic candidate for comptroller, also was endorsed by the labor leaders. Democratic candidates in nearly all the 24 congressional districts were supported by the AFL-CIO. No endorsement was made in the 12th, 14th and 19th districts which were left open for further study.

Prior to the meeting, Robert G. Gibson, state AFL-CIO secretary and treasurer, said there would be no attempt to bring up the question of whether Illinois labor would endorse Sen. George S. McGovern, the Democratic candidate for president.

Two weeks ago, the AFL-CIO national executive council voted to remain neutral in the 1972 presidential race.
